Sugar Firms

WASHINGTON (AP) — The U.S. sugar industry "reaped very large windfall gains" this year from rapidly increasing sugar prices, according to a report issued Monday by the Council on Wage and Price Stability.

Bruce Water of the council staff, who helped prepare the report, said all segments of the industry reaped windfall gains when increasing prices raised the value of their sugar inventories. He said grocers also shared in the windfall, increasing their share of the retail price of sugar from

Edward D. Hollander, senior vice president of the accounting firm of Robert R. Nathan Associates, Inc., said "the increase in the wholesale price of refined cane sugar over the past year is almost entirely a reflection of the spectacular rise in the price of raw sugar."

42 per cent last fall to 55 per cent this fall.

Hollander, who spoke on behalf of the sugar refiners, said raw-sugar prices have increased 450 per cent in a year.

Treasury Secretary William E. Simon called for the hearings, seeking the causes of a boost in the retail price of sugar. The jump in retail prices so far is somewhat below the wholesale jump.

Hollander said an analysis of special questionnaires sent to sugar refiners showed their operating costs have increased 19 per cent. But he said that has been overshadowed by the increase in the price of raw sugar, which he said accounted for about 75 per cent of the wholesale price six years ago and 91 per cent of the wholesale price in September, 1974. Representatives of several consumer groups called on consumers to boycott sugar and said sugar production is controlled by too small a group. They said that 60 per cent of U.S. domestic sugar is produced by 16 per cent of the nation's sugar farms, with the four largest cane refiners accounting for 45 per cent of the market.

They said refiners have strong control over the price of raw sugar since they own substantial interest in sugar farms and sugar processing plants.

Overrides K St. Council

Star Staff Writer

In a surprise move, City Councilman John Robinson provided the swing vote Monday night which was instrumental in the council's overturning the mayor's veto of the K St. power plant

The vote to override the veto was 5-1. Robinson joined council members Sue Bailey, Helen Boosalis, Steve Cook and Max Denney in reaffirming their action of Nov. 12 extending the operation of the power plant until 1977. Councilman Dick Baker voted against that action, while Bob Sikyta again declared a conflict of interest.

Robinson's action marks the second time that he has switched votes on the mushrooming controversy over whether the plant should remain open an extra year. He first voted to extend the deadline and then voted against that extension

In vetoing the council's action, Mayor Schwartzkopf upheld the Lincoln Electric System (LES) Administrative Board's decision to shut down the steam producing plant in May, 1976. The board and the mayor argued that the plant is antiquated, that it violates air pollution laws and that the cost of providing steam is being subsidized by other electric ratepayers.

It was at the request of a number of downtown steam customers this fall that the council became interested in the close-down date. The LES Board announced the 1976 date in January, 1972.

LES officials have pointed out that it is doubtful whether the city can provide steam for as long as was even promised. On Friday, air pollution officials refused LES's request for a permit to allow the continued burning of coal until after July 31, 1975. LES had requested

LES Administrator Walt Canney told the council that LES can burn either natural gas or oil. But. he reminded the lawmakers, natural gas is not a reliable fuel since LES is on interruptible service. Additionally, he said that LES has not been allocated enough fuel oil to assure that oil can be burned instead of gas or coal.

Robinson told reporters after the meeting that it was LES's failure to obtain the variance permit until 1976 that prompted him to change his vote. Robinson said he has been told that LES officials failed to tell air pollution officials the exact date the plant would close down.

And that omission, Robinson charged, should be cleared up with the council's action Monday night. He refused to name his source.

Robinson also said he now believes that the earlier close down date would jeopardize a solid waste study endorsed by the council. He said additional time would be needed to undertake the study and to implement any recommendations calling for a downtown central heating plant.

Robinson said his earlier objection - that other ratepayers would continue to subsidize steam users - has been dropped since LES plans to review the steam rates.

Although the LES Board indicated to the council several weeks ago that it voluntarily would comply with the 1977 date, attorney J. Taylor Greer urged the council to cast that date in concrete.

Greer, who represents the downtown steam users, said LES could balk at is previous statement. LES could claim that circumstances have changed because of the mayor's veto and the pollution decision, he said. Schwartzkopf's three-page veto message explaining why he overturned the council's action came under fire from Denney, Boosalis and Bailey, who claimed it was vague and contradictory. Denney said the mayor "is talking out of both sides of his mouth." The mayor's assistant, Mike Merwick, retorted, "I don't think so. It's an out and out

U Thant Dies At 65; Ex-Secretary General

United Nations (UPI) - U Thant, the quiet devout Buddhist schoolmaster from Burma who for a decade served as the third secretary general of the United Nations, died Monday at the age of 65.

Thant, who had cancer of the cheek, died at New York's Columbia Presbyterian Hospital after contracting pneumonia, a U.N. spokesman said. His death came not quite three years after his retirement.

The General Assembly scheduled a special commemorative session when Thant's successor Kurt Waldheim returns from the Middie East.

Self-effacing and physically small, Thant assumed the top U.N. post as acting secretary general following the death of his Swedish predecessor Dag Hammarskjold in a plane crash in Africa in September 1961. A year later, Thant was unanimously named secretary general in his own right.

Re-elected to a second term. he retired from what he once called his "lonely frustrating iob" on Dec. 31, 1971, having served longer than anyone else as U.N. chief executive.

Diplomats sympathized when he was chosen secretary general in the shadow of Hammarskjold, the world organization's giant. But as one American diplomat Thant became a close adviser of

This generally occurs when snow falls and remains on before the ground freezes. We do know that many knowledgeable lawn owners apply SCOTTS LAWN DISEASE CONTROL in late fall (like right now).

Accord Brings Some Relief

The tentative agreement with the Soviet Union to agree on the matter of limiting nuclear weapons should justify beyond question the wisdom of President Ford flying to the Far East during this time of domestic economic travail.

White House spokesmen are being presumptuous in our opinion in saying that Ford accomplished in three months what Nixon couldn't do in five years. Much of the foundation for such an agreement was laid over the past five years and President Ford knows that. If he doesn't, Sec. Kissinger does. It is also fairly obvious to anyone that the Soviets were not about to agree to a breakthrough in strategic arms limitation talks during the past year or two with a president who very likely would not be around to help the Soviets with another part of the deal: pushing trade concessions through Congress.

But the agreement to write a formal agreement on a ceiling on the number of launching vehicles and warheads is a feather in Ford's cap at any rate and even though it took him away from home at a time when the economy was ailing, it was worth it.

The agreement as we understand it will say that the U.S. and the U.S.S.R. can have in total the same number of nuclear weapons. And a ceiling was placed on the number of weapons that can be deployed.

This does not necessarily mean that the world is any closer to peace or that any less people would be killed in the event of nuclear war. Both nations are deep into overkill capacity and would be even with the ceiling.

But it does mean that there is hope of curtailing the arms race and making it less expensive for the superpowers to keep abreast of one another. There will be less of a drain on the treasury for strategic weapons and there is even hope, with this tentative agreement, that some day the U.S. and the U.S.S.R. will be able to agree on a formula for reducing the stockpiles of nuclear weapons.

And the fact that Ford and Brezhnev can agree on SALT gives hope that they can at least talk, if not always agree, on keeping peace in the Middle East, problems in Europe and about such things as food and

Beyond the question of arms limitation, the Soviets want favorable trade and credit status with the United States as part of their drive to have capitalism and its technology and money build communism in Eastern Europe. We imagine that Secretary Brezhnev told President Ford he would agree to the formal weapons ceiling agreement if the President would act to hurry along the trade bill in Congress. As a matter of speculation, we'd bet that the SALT agreement will not be signed until a trade bill acceptable to the Soviets is enacted.

But even if the Soviets have purposes beyond arms limitation, the tentative accord reached in Vladivostok is some welcome relief to an anxious world.

'People's Candidacy' Possible?

A Louis Harris poll in The Star Monday showed President Ford besting five Democratic hopefuls by handsome margins in a presidential preferential test two years ahead of the next election.

Harris concludes that the Democrats had better come up with a strong candidate (there apparently being none at present) or they will be distinct underdogs in 1976. Those beaten by Ford in the Harris survey were Sens. Muskie, Jackson, Mondale (now out) and Bentsen and Gov. Wallace.

Such results, and those in previous polls which show public disenchantment with established presidential aspirants, as all are but Bentsen in the Monday poll, will be read as optimistically as possible by the dark horses.

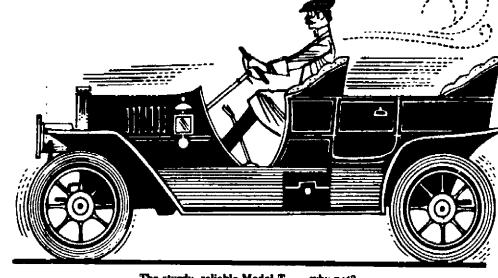

In that category are Rep. Morris Udall, D-Ariz., at present the favorite of less than 1% of Democratic and independent voters, and former Sen. Fred Harris of Oklahoma, who has been described as a liberal George Wallace because of his populist bent and common touch.

Fred Harris was in Nebraska this last weekend testing the atmosphere and seeking support. Dropping out of the 1972 contest because of money problems, Harris sees the new campaign financing law, which provides for a federal contribution to serious candidates, as making a "people's campaign" possible.

Harris may be optimistic because of a better money situation and the fact that there is no clear favorite at the present time. But we imagine that a lot of the old pros, the former powers-that-be, are allowing as how Harris has just about as much of a chance to get the nomination as George McGovern did.

RUSSELL BAKER

The Naked Goose

The sturdy, reliable Model T . . . why not? . . .

WASHINGTON - The idea that Americans might buy fewer cars if prices rose an average of $900 per machine apparently crossed no important minds in Detroit when the 1975 models were contemplated. It is an astounding fact, but what else can we make of the car tycoons' surprised cries of dismay at discovery that their new models are selling like mink coats in

The goose can be plucked only so thoroughly, and then you have to settle for pinfeathers. Instead, the car makers tried for another mattress load. It makes you wonder what ever happened to good old American know-how up there in the board room.

One hesitates to speak slightingly of high business, for its bishops tell us the corporate world is a place of mysteries impenetrable to the layman, and yet here they were, the leaders of the most quintessentially dynamic American industry, automobiles, unaware that you can't pluck a naked goose.

4 4 4 Well, they have their reasons. Costs had risen. Labor was more expensive, and raw materials, and pollution suppressors had to be paid for, and so forth. The old Detroit standards couldn't be brought in at an appealing price. So they brought them in anyhow. Did it occur to anyone to bring in something new, something less than the old standards? What about something basic? Why not a re-issue of the Model T? Such questions make tycoons smile, and not without contempt. They betray a naive ignorance of retooling time, planning procedure, testing delays, design lag, marketing psychology. People who don't understand the business shouldn't ask dumb questions.

On the other hand, people who don't un-derstand goose plucking shouldn't be so quick to laugh at people who do.

If the car industry's troubles were an isolated failure of business skill, we might write it off as a misfortune in a quirky economy and pass on, but the landscape is becoming littered with corporate ruins, and one develops the uneasy feeling that good old American know-how is turning into don't-know-how.

had banking don't-know-how so vast it produced history's biggest bank failure. Wall Street turned out to be lined with

On the Penn Central we had management

At Lockheed they didn't know how to run that didn't know how to run a railroad, and at

Pan American a management that didn't know brokerage houses that didn't know how to run a brokerage house. At the Curtis Publishing Company, they didn't know how to run a magazine, and at Equity Funding they didn't even know how to run a financial swindle.

What has become of the businessman who had imagination? In most of these disasters we see executives meet trouble by plodding headdown along the predetermined courses that carried them into trouble in the first place. They seem frozen in immobility, shackled by corporate habit, capable of loud complaint, quick to charge the public more for less, eager to ask Washington for a bailout, and utterly empty of imagination. Thus the electric-power companies like Consolidated Edison are very good at the glum face and at telling us to expect only blood, toil, sweat and tears, but if anyone in the industry has had an idea for stopping the rise in the price of electricity before it exceeds the monthly morigage payment on the house, it is a secret well kent.

Ideas must be stifled at birth somewhere in the lower reaches of corporate hierarchies. The only ones that seem to survive these days are very old indeed, for business's response to hard times continues to be complaint, higher prices and government bailout, either through direct handout or tax relief.

If this sounds churlish toward the boardroom captains, they must understand that a person who has to pay more for their goods, and then pay more to the government to support their failures, and then sit still for advice that he will have to pay even more next year, and deserves to, because he won't practice more self-denial, is not a person likely to cheer his tormentors as heroes of industry.

Never has the debt

economy seemed more vulnerable" ☆ ☆ ☆ But it is not merely the statistics that are troubling Washington. The statistics only destroy the illusion that everybody is going to live better and better year after year in America, and the destruction of this illusion is not a bad thing. The Capital is depressed, not so much by the facts, but by the feeling that nobody here is really dealing with the facts in the order of their importance.

The president has been away, reassuring the Japanese and the South Koreans, and getting acquainted with the Russians at Vladivostok, all useful exercises, and good television. But it is interesting that even the first American president's visit to Japan, and his first summit meeting with Brezhnev in the Soviet Union had to take second place in the newspapers and on the TV network news reports to the economic and unemployment figures from Detroit.

The Congress is just as remote from the central questions of the nation. It is preoccupied, not with the economy, or the organization of the new Ford administration, or the alarming developments in the Middle East, but with Nelson Rockefeller's money, taxes, political publishing ventures, Arthur Goldberg, Victor Lasky, and also with Fritz Mondale, the senator from Minnesota, who pulled out of the 1976 presidential race - all this and other secondary considerations. \triangle \triangle \triangle

The nation is in trouble now and is looking for a lead, but isn't getting it. It is just as strong as it ever was, despite the stock market - probably stronger but it is nervous. It is nervous and depressed because it has been living an illusion, and is now magnifying its losses because it inflated its gains and

This is the main thing before Ford now that he is back from the Soviet Union. His first priorities are at home and not abroad. He has a really serious crisis in the Middle East, which is loitering down into a fifth Arab-Israeli war. And he has fundamental problems with the Soviet: Union on the control of strategic arms, but he is not likely to be able to deal with these things unless he has stability at home and unity among the Atlantic nations and Japan. There is no problem in the world that can be solved unless the economic, political, and military problems of North America, Europe and Japan are brought together in a common policy, and the first requirement of this is a resolution of the economic crisis in the United

☆ ☆ ☆ The last 10 years have been a period of profound political and spiritual bewilderment in America. During this time, our political leaders have led us to believe that it was our destiny to get more prosperity and more peace, more affluence, more cars and more "things," but if we have anything to be thankful for now, it is that the brutal facts are now destroying these illusions. From Vietnam to Watergate, the nation has been on a binge. and is now suffering the consequences. Its money is inflated because its expectations were inflated, and whatever the politicians say in Washington, it is not likely to go back to the wasteful affluence of the 1960's.

"What is it that has shaken the nerves of so many?" Walter Lippmann asked during the other great economic crisis of the 1930's. "It is the doubt whether there exists among the people that trust in each other which is the first condition of intelligent leadership. That is the root of the matter. The particular projects which we debate so angrily are not so important. The fate of the nation does not hang upon any of them. But upon the power of the people to remain united for purposes which they respect, upon their capacity to have faith in themselves and in their objectives, which it depends. It is not the facts of the crisis which we have to fear. They can be endured and dealt with. It is demoralization alone that is dangerous."

Mondale And Udall

WASHINGTON — Sen. Walter Mondale once confided to a friend that he was not sure he could be elected president because "I don't think there's labor's favorite, is well-heeled enough show biz in me." That and well-organized, but a may only have been another way toothless vote-ketter and a hawk of saying what he told reporters only slightly more acceptable this week when he withdrew from the 1976 campaign — that he did not want the job enough to do what he'd have to do to win Three cheers, then, for an bonest man who said what many know and few concede, that running for the presidency is a brutal business, sometimes demanding, often unpleasant, rewarding mostly as a candidate may crave the plaudits of the crowd. And for Fritz Mondale or any other public man to say that "I don't have to be president" is really to say that power is not everything in this world, especially when its price is as high as that of the presidency usually

But there are always men who believe that what they may be able to do with power will be worth the price they will have to pay. Moving more or less formally into the race, for instance, even as Mondale moved out, was Rep. Morris Udall of Arizona. who said in New Hampshire on Saturday that he would enter that state's 1976 presidential

☆ ☆ ☆ This was almost a symbolic double play, although the two moves were not actually linked. But many of those who supported Mondale, or at least considered him the most likely to succeed among liberal Democratic candidates, may now have to look at "Mo" Udall more closely. A glance at the lengthy roster of possibilities

muster the most delegates today, is unacceptable to a broad spectrum of Democrats. Sen. a more liberal record than any Henry Jackson of Washington, than Wallace to the Democratic left. Both these men will swing much weight at the 1976 convention, but neither is likely to be nominated.

The two old war horses, Hubert Humphrey and Edmund Muskie, are possible contenders. and Humphrey in particular aways seems to be chambing at the bit. But he has been to the post too often to be taken really seriously, and Muskie has confined to close associates that while he'd still like to be in the White House, he doesn't want to

Besides, Muskie has to run for his own seat in 1976, in a state that just elected an independent as governor, and he would hardly risk losing his substantial status in the Senate for a dubious shot at the presidency. As for the 1972 nominee, George McGovern, just re-elected in South Dakota, the taste of it may still be in his mouth a little; but the taste of landslide defeat is what remains in the mouths of most other Democrats. So who's

☆ ☆ ☆ Well, there's Sen. Lloyd Bentsen of Texas, for sure, and Sens. Birch Bayh of Indiana, John Glenn of Ohio, and Dale Bumpers of Arkansas, maybe; former southern Governors Jimmy Carter and Terry Sanford, probably; Gov. Rubin Askew of Florida, probably not: and a pride of other governors and mayors — Carey, Brown, Shapp, White, Walker, Anderson, etc. sniffing the air.

Morris Udall, a member of the Alabama, who could undoubtedly House stace 1961, has more of these except Hugh Carey, and save Carey and Askew. Although his brother was in the Johnson cabinet, he was against the war in Vietnam soon and strongly enough to please the left, and now wants to cut the military budget. Still, as a small-state westerner, he believes he can "show strength in the South" and he has a useful base in the mountain states.

☆ ☆ A member of the Interior Committee, Udall takes strongly progressive positions on energy and the environment. Thus, in their own districts, Udall's House colleagues can be of much

At the moment, he professes not to be too engaged to back out or take a defeat gracefully. He is not planning a huge and costly campaign apparatus, but has mapped out the primaries where he thinks he can run advantageously and is scheduling Tree days a week on the road and two in Washington.

"I want to keep lean and small and natural," he says - which is fine for now, and about what they all say in the beginning. The real question is what they say when the price of power has to be paid. Dent's Dilemma

WASHINGTON - Plainspoken Harry Dent, the general counsel of the Republican National Committee, has been given the bitter choice of pleading guilty to a minor charge or of facing a felony indictment and a costly, painful trial.

Dent, architect of President Nixon's successful "Southern Strategy," was given the ultimatum a few days ago by Special Prosecutor Charles Ruff during secret talks in Washington. According to friends, Dent is now gloomily mulling over the "offer" in his native South Carolina.

Under Ruff's proposal, Dent would plead guilty to the mising and abotting" the illegal "Operation Townhouse" which raised $3 million for Republican candidates in 1970.

Although lodged in the basement of a private townhouse, the funding operation was set up by White House aide H. R. candidates by ex-President Nixon.

Nixon, of course, has been pardoned. But his former lawyer, Herb Kalmbach, is serving a 6to-18 months sentence growing out of the "Townhouse." A second ex-Nixon aide, Jack Gleason, has pleaded guilty to running "Operation Townhouse" and faces a possible year in jail.

Dent's involvement is the most ironic of all. He learned "South" politics at the knee of his old boss, Sen. Strom Thurmond, R-S.C. But Dent, like his mentor, is personally regarded as honest, even by his enemies.

His candor led him privately to denounce the White House "dirty tricks" operators and to quit the Nixon team in favor of Haldeman and contributions his current job. Prosecutors conwere personally earmarked for cede his rule at the "Townbouse" was minimal. ተ ተ

Yet a secret Environmental Protection Agency report, prepared last May, declares that if the converters are retained until 1980 they could "substantially reduce the exposure of millions of commuters . . . to castercausing chemicals." Accord Brings Some Relief

The tentative agreement with the Soviet Union to agree on the matter of limiting nuclear weapons should justify beyond question the wisdom of President Ford flying to the Far East during this time of domestic economic travail.

White House spokesmen are being presumptuous in our opinion in saying that Ford accomplished in three months what Nixon couldn't do in five years. Much of the foundation for such an agreement was laid over the past five years and President Ford knows that. If he doesn't, Sec. Kissinger does. It is also fairly obvious to anyone that the Soviets were not about to agree to a breakthrough in strategic arms limitation talks during the past year or two with a president who very likely would not be around to help the Soviets with another part of the deal: pushing trade concessions through Congress.

But the agreement to write a formal agreement on a ceiling on the number of launching vehicles and warheads is a feather in Ford's cap at any rate and even though it took him away from home at a time when the economy was ailing, it was

The agreement as we understand it will say that the U.S. and the U.S.S.R. can have in total the same number of nuclear weapons. And a ceiling was placed on the number of weapons that can be deployed.

This does not necessarily mean that the world is any closer to peace or that any less people would be killed in the event of nuclear war. Both nations are deep into overkill capacity and would be even with the ceiling.

But it does mean that there is hope of curtailing the arms race and making it less expensive for the superpowers to keep abreast of one another. There will be less of a drain on the treasury for strategic weapons and there is even hope, with this tentative agreement, that some day the U.S. and the U.S.S.R. will be able to agree on a formula for reducing the stockpiles of nuclear weapons.

And the fact that Ford and Brezhnev can agree on SALT gives hope that they can at least talk, if not always agree, on keeping peace in the Middle East, problems in Europe and about such things as food and

Beyond the question of arms limitation, the Soviets want favorable trade and credit status with the United States as part of their drive to have capitalism and its technology and money build communism in Eastern Europe. We imagine that Secretary Brezhnev told President Ford he would agree to the formal weapons ceiling agreement if the President would act to hurry along the trade bill in Congress. As a matter of speculation, we'd bet that the SALT agreement will not be signed until a trade bill acceptable to the Soviets is

But even if the Soviets have purposes beyond arms limitation, the tentative accord reached in Vladivostok is some welcome relief to an anxious world.

'People's Candidacy' Possible?

A Louis Harris poll in The Star Monday showed President Ford besting five Democratic hopefuls by handsome margins in a presidential preferential test two years ahead of the next election.

Harris concludes that the Democrats had better come up with a strong candidate (there apparently being none at present) or they will be distinct underdogs in 1976. Those beaten by Ford in the Harris survey were Sens. Muskie, Jackson, Mondale (now out) and Bentsen and Gov. Wallace.

Such results, and those in previous polls which show public disenchantment with established presidential aspirants, as all are but Bentsen in the Monday poll, will be read as optimistically as possible by the dark horses.

In that category are Rep. Morris Udall, D-Ariz., at present the favorite of less than 1% of Democratic and independent voters, George McGovern did.

and former Sen. Fred Harris of Oklahoma, who has been described as a liberal George Wallace because of his populist bent and common touch.

Fred Harris was in Nebraska this last weekend testing the atmosphere and seeking support. Dropping out of the 1972 contest because of money problems, Harris sees the new campaign financing law, which provides for a federal contribution to serious candidates, as making a "people's campaign" possible.

Harris may be optimistic because of a better money situation and the fact that there is no clear favorite at the present time. But we imagine that a lot of the old pros, the former powers-that-be, are allowing as how Harris has just about as much of a chance to get the nomination as

The sturdy, reliable Model T . . . why not? . . .

WASHINGTON — The idea that Americans might buy fewer cars if prices rose an average of $900 per machine apparently crossed no important minds in Detroit when the 1975 models were contemplated. It is an astounding fact, but what else can we make of the car tycoons' surprised cries of dismay at discovery that their new models are selling like mink coats in Calcutta?

The goose can be plucked only so thoroughly, and then you have to settle for pinfeathers. Instead, the car makers tried for another mattress load. It makes you wonder what ever happened to good old American know-how up there in the board room.

One hesitates to speak slightingly of high business, for its bishops tell us the corporate world is a place of mysteries impenetrable to the layman, and yet here they were, the leaders of the most quintessentially dynamic American industry, automobiles, unaware that you can't pluck a naked goose.

Well, they have their reasons. Costs had risen. Labor was more expensive, and raw materials, and pollution suppressors had to be paid for, and so forth. The old Detroit standards couldn't be brought in at an appealing price. So they brought them in anyhow.

Did it occur to anyone to bring in something new, something less than the old standards? What about something basic? Why not a re-issue of the Model T? Such questions make tycoons smile, and not without contempt. They betray a naive ignorance of retooling time, planning procedure, testing delays, design lag, marketing psychology. People who don't understand the business shouldn't ask dumb questions.

On the other hand, people who don't understand goose plucking shouldn't be so quick to laugh at people who do.

If the car industry's troubles were an isolated failure of business skill, we might write it off as a misfortune in a quirky economy and pass on, but the landscape is becoming littered with corporate ruins, and one develops the uneasy feeling that good old American know-how is turning into don't-know-how.

On the Penn Central we had management that didn't know how to run a railroad, and at Pan American a management that didn't know how to run an airline.

At Lockheed they didn't know how to run an aircraft company even with the Pentagon's sweetheart subsidy. At Franklin National we had banking don't-know-how so vast it produced history's biggest bank failure.

Wall Street turned out to be lined with brokerage houses that didn't know how to run a brokerage house. At the Curtis Publishing Company, they didn't know how to run a magazine, and at Equity Funding they didn't even know how to run a financial swindle.

What has become of the businessman who had imagination? In most of these disasters we see executives meet trouble by plodding headdown along the predetermined courses that carried them into trouble in the first place. They seem frozen in immobility, shackled by corporate habit, capable of loud complaint, quick to charge the public more for less, eager to ask Washington for a bailout, and utterly empty of imagination.

Thus the electric-power companies like Consolidated Edison are very good at the glum face and at telling us to expect only blood, toil, sweat and tears, but if anyone in the industry has had an idea for stopping the rise in the price of electricity before it exceeds the monthly mortgage payment on the house, it is a secret well kept.

Ideas must be stifled at birth somewhere in the lower reaches of corporate hierarchies. The only ones that seem to survive these days are very old indeed, for business's response to hard times continues to be complaint, higher prices and government bailout, either through direct handout or tax relief.

If this sounds churlish toward the boardroom captains, they must understand that a person who has to pay more for their goods, and then pay more to the government to support their failures, and then sit still for advice that he will have to pay even more next year, and deserves to, because he won't practice more self-denial, is not a person likely to cheer his tormentors as heroes of industry.

JAMES RESTON

WASHINGTON - The latest Thanksgiving Day bulletin from the economic front is that over 200,000 auto workers will be out of jobs next month and that the unemployment total in the nation will be over 6 million or 7% of the work force next year.

The Capital is being battered by statistics. More than a quarter of the auto industry's 700,000 workers will be on temporary or indefinite layoffs in December. Chrysler Corporation will almost be shut down until Christmas. Big Steel is beginning to add to the layoffs, and the mayor of New York cuts 1,510 employes and announces "the toughest austerity program" since the economic depression of the 1930's.

What to do? "Do without," says President Ford. "Buy cars," says Leonard Woodcock, president of the United Auto Workers, announcing a newspaper advertising campaign to stimulate sales. "Be careful," says Business Week magazine, adding some more alarming

The U.S. economy already stands atop "a mountain of debt $2.5 trillion high," the magazine warns, $1 trillion in corporate debt; $600 billion in mortgage debt; $500 billion in U.S. government debt; $200 billion in state and local government debt; and $200 billion in consumer debt.

This would be an "awesome burden of debt," Business Week adds, "even if the world economic climate were perfect," but the world is "ravaged by inflation, threatened with economic depression, torn apart by the massive redistribution of wealth that has accompanied the soaring price of oil . . . and there are signs of tension everywhere: Corporate debt-equity ratios and bank loans-deposit ratios way out of line; consumer installment-debt repayment taking a record share of disposable income; the huge real estate market in desperate trouble . . . Never has the debt economy seemed more vulnerable.

☆ ☆ ☆ But it is not merely the statistics that are troubling Washington. The statistics only destroy the illusion that everybody is going to live better and better year after year in America, and the destruction of this illusion is not a bad thing. The Capital is depressed, not so much by the facts, but by the feeling that nobody here is really dealing with the facts in the order of their importance.

The president has been away, reassuring the Japanese and the South Koreans, and getting acquainted with the Russians at Vladivostok, all useful exercises, and good television. But it is interesting that even the first American president's visit to Japan, and his first summit meeting with Brezhnev in the Soviet Union had to take second place in the newspapers and on the TV network news reports to the economic and unemployment figures from Detroit.

The Congress is just as remote from the central questions of the nation. It is preoccupied, not with the economy, or the organization of the new Ford administration, or the alarming developments in the Middle East, but with Nelson Rockefeller's money, taxes, political publishing ventures, Arthur Goldberg, Victor Lasky, and also with Fritz Mondale, the senator from Minnesota, who pulled out of the 1976 presidential race — all this and other secondary considerations.

☆ ☆ ☆ The nation is in trouble now and is looking for a lead, but isn't getting it. It is just as strong as it ever was, despite the stock market - probably stronger but it is nervous. It is nervous and depressed because it has been living an illusion, and is now magnifying its losses because it inflated its gains and dreams.

This is the main thing before Ford now that he is back from the Soviet Union. His first priorities are at home and not abroad. He has a really serious crisis in the Middle East, which is loitering down into a fifth Arab-Israeli war. And he has fundamental problems with the Soviet Union on the control of strategic arms, but he is not likely to be able to deal with these things unless he has stability at home and unity among the Atlantic nations and Japan.

There is no problem in the world that can be solved unless the economic, political, and military problems of North America, Europe and Japan are brought together in a common policy, and the first requirement of this is a resolution of the

From Vietnam to Watergate, the nation has been on a binge, and is now suffering the consequences. Its money is inflated because its expectations were inflated, and whatever the politicians say in Washington, it is not likely to go back to the wasteful affluence of the 1960's. "What is it that has shaken the nerves of so many?" Walter Lippmann asked during the other great economic crisis of the 1930's. "It is the doubt whether there exists among the people that trust in each other which is the first condition of intelligent leadership. That is the root of the matter. The particular projects which we debate so angrily are not so important. The fate of the nation does not hang upon any of them. But upon the power of the people to remain united for purposes which they respect, upon their capacity to have faith in themselves and in their objectives, which it depends. It is not the facts of the crisis which we have to fear. They can be endured and dealt with. It is demoralization alone that is

Mondale once confided to a friend that he was not sure he could be elected president because "I don't think there's enough show biz in me." That may only have been another way of saying what he told reporters this week when he withdrew from the 1976 campaign — that he did not want the job enough to do what he'd have to do to win tion, but neither is likely to be

Three cheers, then, for an honest man who said what many know and few concede, that running for the presidency is a brutal business, sometimes demanding, often unpleasant, rewarding mostly as a candidate may crave the plaudits of the crowd. And for Fritz Mondale or any other public man to say that "I don't have to be president" is really to say that power is not everything in this world, especially when its price is as high as that of the presidency usually

But there are always men who believe that what they may be able to do with power will be worth the price they will have to pay. Moving more or less formally into the race, for instance, even as Mondale moved out, was Rep. Morris Udall of Arizona, who said in New Hampshire on Saturday that he would enter that state's 1976 presidential primary.

☆ ☆ ☆ This was almost a symbolic double play, although the two moves were not actually linked. But many of those who supported Mondale, or at least considered him the most likely to succeed among liberal Democratic candidates, may now have to look at "Mo" Udall more closely. A glance at the lengthy roster of possibilities shows why.

Gov. George Wallace of Alabama, who could undoubtedly muster the most delegates today, is unacceptable to a broad spectrum of Democrats. Sen. Henry Jackson of Washington, labor's favorite, is well-heeled and well-organized, but a toothless vote-getter and a hawk only slightly more acceptable than Wallace to the Democratic left. Both these men will swing much weight at the 1976 convennominated.

The two old war horses, Hubert Humphrey and Edmund Muskie, are possible contenders, and Humphrey in particular always seems to be champing at the bit. But he has been to the post too often to be taken really seriously, and Muskie has confined to close associates that while he'd still like to be in the White House, he doesn't want to campaign for it.

Besides, Muskie has to run for his own seat in 1976, in a state that just elected an independent as governor, and he would hardly risk losing his substantial status in the Senate for a dubious shot at the presidency. As for the 1972 nominee, George McGovern, just re-elected in South Dakota, the taste of it may still be in his mouth a little; but the taste of landslide defeat is what remains in the mouths of most other Democrats. So who's

☆ ☆ ☆ Well, there's Sen. Lloyd Bentsen of Texas, for sure, and Sens. Birch Bayh of Indiana, John Glenn of Ohio, and Dale Bumpers of Arkansas, maybe; former southern Governors Jimmy Carter and Terry Sanford, probably; Gov. Rubin Askew of Florida, probably not; and a pride of other governors and mayors - Carey, Brown, Shapp, White, Walker, Anderson, etc. -

Morris Udall, a member of the House since 1961, has more of these except Hugh Carey, and a more liberal record than any save Carey and Askew. Although his brother was in the Johnson cabinet, he was against the war in Vietnam soon and strongly enough to please the left, and now wants to cut the military budget. Still, as a small-state westerner, he believes he can "show strength in the South" and he has a useful base in the mountain states.

A member of the Interior Committee, Udall takes strongly progressive positions on energy and the environment. Terrorists Bombers Strike; Power To Ban IRA Sought

LONDON (AP) — Terrorist bombers struck at the heart of London on Monday as Britain's Labor government sught emergency powers to ban the Irish Republican Army.

Scotland Yard said 20 people were injured by explosions of three bombs planted in sidewalk mailboxes - one at Piccadilly Circus in the center of the capital's entertainment district, the others at Victoria and King's Cross railroad terminals.

Police sealed off Piccadilly at the height of the evening rush hour. They ordered evacuation too of Charing Cross station while bomb experts disposed of a suspect parcel on a train.

The bombings came after Home Secretary Roy Jenkins had asked the House of Commons to outlaw the IRA and any similar groups even at the cost of some long-cherished liberties. His aim was to cut off any further spread of Northern Ireland violence to mainland Bri-

Southeast Nebraska Bureau Red Cloud - It's only a slight exaggeration to say that Nebraska's foresters are going flip over FIP.

The initials stand for the new Forestry Incentives Program, a cost-sharing plan created by the 1973 Congress to boost tree planting and forest management. Nebraska landowners started getting into the act this summer.

With 24 counties declared eligible for the assistance, interest is decidedly on the upswing. That's saying quite a bit when you figure that the planting of a walnut grove now won't pay off a single dollar for perhaps 45 years.

"We have to be honest and tell a farmer that he probably won't be planting for himself," said Larry Barber of Clay Center, area extension forester for the South Central Station. "FIP has to be looked at as a long-term investment. Of course time is the reason the state and nation have been so lacking in forest management.

Joseph Gentrup and included with the land were a modern home, two large barns, garage, machine shed, two medium barns, and double corn crib. Total price of the 140-acre involved was $144,900.

For example, a 10-acre Republican River tract near Red Cloud owned by Mrs. Veda Tennant is currently being shorn of its willows, mulberry and box elder trees. Planted in their place will be hackberry, ash and maple. In this instance the soil is not conducive to walnut.

Chain saws are eliminating the smaller trees. Larger ones are girdled with an axe, then either sprayed or injected with killing chemicals. Any limbs not wanted for firewood are left to "naturally return to the soil."

"All the good timber lacks is light which it has been deprived of by the undesirable growth," said Jim Jarosik, assistant forester working directly with FIP in the South Central area. "Actually the thinning only speeds up what nature would accomplish anyway in possibly 50 years or so.

Hemingford (AP) - A variety of poppy which can yield codene without the production of opium has been planted in a 15-acre test plot near here.

Heroin and morphine, as well as codene, are now obtained from the poppy

The plot was planted on land owned by Agricultural Specialties. Inc., and is one of several throughout the nation.

H. Dale Moore of Alliance, production specialist for the firm, confirmed that the test plot has been planted with popples of the same variety that grow wild in Iran.

Moore said soil and climate research indicated that Box Butte County is suitable for the cultivation of the plants, and that if the plot is successful, the county may become a production area for the new crop.

The new poppy variety can be grown legally, unlike the socalled "opium poppy." Codene is a derivative of opium.

Southeast Nebraska May Get Public Radio Station

Star Saff Writer

Nebraskans could have a public radio station in their future.

The Nebraska Educational Television (NETV) Commission Monday directed the NETV staff to investigate the possibilities of adding national public radio to the statewide network. Commissioner Philip Heckman, president of

Doane College in Crete, made the proposal, urging "a public radio station, somewhere in southeast Nebraska."

Heckman is a member of the national Public Broadcasting Service (PBS) board of governors and its executive committee. Absent Monday, Heckman in a letter urged the NETV Commission to change "our scope from television to the full range of public broadcasting,'

Jack McBride, commission secretary and NETV Network general manager, said Heckman explained planning funds can be obtained from the Corporation for Public Broadcasting (CPB) and under the Educational Broadcasting Facilities Act through the U.S. Department of Health, Education and Welfare (HEW).

McBride said he anticipates "a host of problems and questions" in starting a statewide public radio station, but noted precedents in Pennsylvania, Maryland and South Carolina.

The NETV Commission directed the staff to report on possibilities at the December meeting. In other business, NETV Program Manager Ron Hull reported that the network will begin broadcasting weather warnings beginning Dec. 1. A "W" symbol inside a circle will appear in the lower right-hand corner of the screen to alert viewers to blizzards, tornadoes, severe thunderstorms and hazardous floods. Only Where Affected

The symbol will appear only on the NETV Network station or stations in the area affected by the severe weather, and will remain as long as the warning is in effect. Its purpose is to allow viewers to turn to commercial radio or TV for more details.

Hull also reported that the ABC Evening News captioned for the hearing-impaired has been extended to run through May 31, 1975. It was begun initially on an experimental basis through November.

The NETV Network has proposed three programs for the national station program cooperative for PBS affiliates, Hull said. They include a two-hour special on the International Collegiate Rodeo in Boseman, Mont., next year: 13 half-hour segments on American popular music and songwriters from 1890 to 1950, and "Anvone for Tennyson?" 39 half-hour programs on poetry, 13 of which would be taped on college campuses.

"We expect to be funded somewhere between $15 and $20 million," if the programs are approved, Hull said. Other PBS affiliates are competing to offer programs to the cooperative.

Boyd Rooney, assistant general manager for operations, told commissioners that the network is still seeking a site near Falls City to install a transmitter to serve that area blacked out from NETV. Five acres are needed, Rooney said, and costs per acre may run as high as $2,000.

Legislature's Miscellaneous Subjects Committee decided Monday to building in North Platte for state recommend to the 1975 agency offices. The committee recommended that legislation be introduced next year which would replace the current year six Supreme Court districts with three. A Bar Association committee earlier recommended that all districts be done away with.

Congressional Lines Sen. J. James Waldron of North Platte, chairman of the legislative committee, said the three new districts would follow congressional district lines.

'That way we won't ever have to redistrict again," Waldron

Under the plan, the chief justice would still be selected on an at-large basis and the whole state would continue to vote on his retention. The problem which has developed with the current six districts, Waldron said, is that in Omaha one district has few attorneys in it. Each of the three new districts would have two judges each.

Star Saff Writer Nebraskans could have a public radio station in their future

The Nebraska Educational Television (NETV) Commission Monday directed the NETV staff to investigate the possibilities of adding national public radio to the statewide network.

Commissioner Philip Heckman, president of Doane College in Crete, made the proposal, urging "a public radio station, somewhere in southeast Nebraska.

Heckman is a member of the national Public Broadcasting Service (PBS) board of governors and its executive committee. Absent Monday, Heckman in a letter urged the NETV Commission to change "our scope from television to the full range of public broadcasting.

Jack McBride, commission secretary and NETV Network general manager, said Heckman explained planning funds can be obtained from the Corporation for Public Broadcasting (CPB) and under the Educational Broadcasting Facilities Act through the U.S. Department of Health, Education and Welfare (HEW).

McBride said he anticipates "a host of problems and questions" in starting a statewide public radio station, but noted precedents in Pennsylvania, Maryland and South Carolina.

The NETV Commission directed the staff to report on possibilities at the December meeting. In other business, NETV Program Manager

Ron Hull reported that the network will begin broadcasting weather warnings beginning Dec. 1. A "W" symbol inside a circle will appear in the lower right-hand corner of the screen to alert viewers to blizzards, tornadoes, severe thunderstorms and hazardous floods

Only Where Affected The symbol will appear only on the NETV

Network station or stations in the area affected by the severe weather, and will remain as long as the warning is in effect. Its purpose is to allow viewers to turn to commercial radio or TV for more details.

Hull also reported that the ABC Evening News captioned for the hearing-impaired has been extended to run through May 31, 1975. It was begun initially on an experimental basis through November

The NETV Network has proposed three programs for the national station program cooperative for PBS affiliates, Hull said. They in-

The Legislature's Judiciary tor William C. Peters waived the education requirement for Parratt based on the recommendation of Corrections Director most qualified. Joseph Vitek.

Peters noted that neither of Parratt's predecessors, Charles Wolff Jr. and Maurice Sigler, had college degrees and said he is in the process of revising job specifications to allow for Office Building Urged By United Press International Legislature a new plan for state Legislature's Supreme Court districts and the Miscellaneous Subjects Compurchase of a single office mittee decided Monday to building in North Platte for state > agency offices. The committee recommended that legislation be introduced next year which would replace the current year six Supreme Court districts with three.

A Bar Association committee earlier recommended that all districts be done away with.

Congressional Lines Sen. J. James Waldron of North Platte, chairman of the legislative committee, said the three new districts would follow congressional district lines.

'That way we won't ever have to redistrict again," Waldron

Under the plan, the chief justice would still be selected on an at-large basis and the whole state would continue to vote on his retention. The problem which has developed with the current six districts, Waldron said, is that in Omaha one district has few attorneys in it.

Each of the three new districts would have two judges each.

The proposal for North Platte would involve the purchase of the old St. Marys Hospital building.

$500,000 Pricetag

Waldron said the price would be about $500,000. He noted now the various state agencies having offices in that area spend about $51,000 a year in rent. There are nine state agency offices in North Platte alone, the committee was told. However, the State Patrol and Roads Department would retain their current offices.

Waldron said he hopes the recommendation is adopted by an experiment, if it works out similar moves would take place in Grand Island, Kearney and Scottsbluff.

The committee took no action on a suggestion from Waldron that legislation be introduced to limit campaign expenditures. He suggested a $25,000 limit for each for the primary and general elections for statewide offices and $5,000 each for other offices.

As the holidays approach, with visions of sugar plums and other traditional sweets, home bakers with a sweet tooth are thinking twice about filling the cookie jar and candy dish when sugar is nearing 60 cents a pound.

However, there are alternate sweetening agents honey, corn syrup and granulated sugar substitutes, for instance — that can stretch a cup or two of sugar.

Although prices on those sweeteners also have risen, — one cup of corn syrup costs 22.5 cents — they can still produce candies, cakes and cookies that are less expensive then their store-bought or sugarsweetened counterparts.

But just try and bake without sugar! The mere anticipation that sweet aromas may soon be floating from the oven moves the arm involuntarily towards

Molasses Cooking Is Not New

In the days of "westering", when our nation's settlers drove covered wagons across the prairies, sugar was a scarce commodity. It was a jug of molasses, also called "long sweetening", that provided toppings for journey cake, flapjacks and biscuits baked in the campfire coals. And when the settlers picked a home site, molasses was used to sweeten goodies baked in the hearth

Even when sugar was readily available, America's homemakers chose molasses for certain traditional recipes. During World War Two, molasses became popular for many not-so-traditional uses. Sugar was scarce and rationed. So countless people saved sugar for their breakfast coffee and got into the habit of baking with bountiful molasses.

As sugar prices climb, a number of contemporary shoppers are again stocking up on molasses, an economical sweetner with extra

Church Parishioners Work Years To Complete Wall Hanging Project

By DOROTHY KINCAID MINNEAPOLIS, MINN. - The Pilgrim fathers who landed on Plymouth Rock in 1620 were originally known as "Separatists." They and the Puritans who followed hoped at first to purify the Church of England while retaining the bishopric, but in New England they became independents.

That's the way it was. And that's the way it is interpreted by the men and women of the Plymouth Embroidery project, who have told the story of early Americans in what is believed to be the largest church hanging - 25 by 15 feet - to be done outside professional hop in this country for hundreds of years. The needlework, in three panels, highlights historic events and the beginnings of Congregationalism and captures the spirit of our settlers. Portions of the center show the Mayflower, Plymouth Colony, the first Thanksgiving feast, and Miles Standish drilling his men to entertain Indian guests.

The right panel concerning freedom depicts the voyage of the slave ship -Amistad, symbolizes the underground railroad of pre-Civil War days; shows Eliza crossing the ice; and includes local lore.

The left panel, on worship and learning, includes the present Plymouth Congregational church here, for which the embroidery was originated; an early school for Indians, Dartmouth college; and the famous "havstack meeting" of 1806 which led to formation of the oldest mission board in the

The borders contain many symbols, mainly Christian ones above and earth-related ones below.

How the hanging came to be is an inspiring story of good people working together, over a long period of time. It started in the 60s with the search by Plymouth pastor Howard J. Conn and his associate, the Rev. Elaine Marsh, and others for a way to decorate a bare wall in the Guild Hall, where wedding and social functions are held. Eventually, it was decided that the church members would make their own tapestry - or, as it turned out embroidery. (A tapestry is woven.)

During a trip to England in 1968, Miss Marsh took the idea to Pauline Baynes, who had illustrated works of J. R. R. Tolkien and C. S. Lewis, She had never designed a church hanging, she said, but she wanted to try.

A great bundle of books and notes went off to Surrey, England. In a few months came back the painting only 25 by 16 inches, one-twelfth the scale of the completed embroidery, and it pleased one and all.

In the case of the Mayflower, what we had to get across, Miss Marsh said, "is the sheer nerve it took to make this voyage. It took so long . . . families were separated ... there was sickness."

By December of 1970, the church needlewomen not only had their first look at the Mayflower but of the total design, one which would grow into their consciousness, stitch by stitch, in the next four years.

The first great hurdle was to get the design onto the heavy Irish upholsterer's linen for which they had scoured the country. This fabric, an ecru shade, was of great importance since the stitchery covers only about two-thirds of the surface.

Two church members identified only as John and Priscilla Alden accomplished this task almost singlehandedly.

'We went to the outdoor advertising people to see how they did," John said. They read books. Nowhere could they find guidance.

The Aldens have a balcony in their living room. John devised a mirror at a 45-degree angle and by experiment learned how to project the design from the balcony to the floor below. The strips of linen were attached, one at a time, to a long pallet. The design was projected in 27-inch squares onto the linen and laboriously traced by hand. The pallet was moved along to receive the next square.

Meanwhile, the Crewel Needlers had organized. In all, some 40 women auditioned by making samplers for professionals to evaluate. Finally, a total of 60 persons including researchers and "cartoonists," began work on the project.

Six women drew up the stitch plan, deciding on a total of 25 crewel stitches. The original idea was to use the same 11 colors that appear in the Bayeux tapestry, the 230-foot wide embroidery chronicling the Norman conquest of England in 1066.

However, the Minnesota embroidery was expanded to 18 shades - mostly reds, blues, golds and earth tones. They matched yarns to daubs of color supplied by the artist.

Sketches were made of each equare, and individual color and stitch charts. The workrooms soon were papered with samplers, sketches, charts and admonishing signs.

So month after month, year after year, the needlers worked away on the 12 strips of linen. When all but the seam edges were complete, these were joined on a sewing machine and embroidered over the seam. They pressed as they went along.

The Crewel Needlers came and went. Nine professional women worked evenings. Another group met every day. Ages ranged from 25 to 85 - one woman and her granddaughter both were employed. It was not unknown for someone to work right through the Sunday morning service, though the practice was not encouraged.

When several strips had been ioined, they were hung tentatively in the Guild Hall and a terrible error appeared. The Plymouth Embroidery was going to be larger than the arched space for which it was designed. "Fold it over," some said, but the final solution was more basic and more satisfactory. 'We rebuilt the church," said

Alden. What they did was to build a shallow platform out from the wall, clearing the offending beams. This also provided space for the pulley mechanism required to raise and lower the embroidery.

As the work neared an end in recent months, it was shown to needlework experts from London and the West Coast. They all asked: "How did you happen to do everything right?"

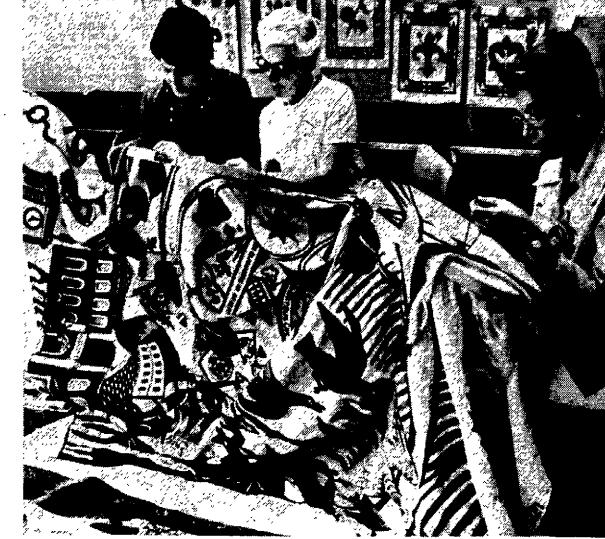

Much thought has gone into protecting the massive work of art. Besides air conditioning, insurance, burglar alarms, electric eyes, and other secret devices, the church installed special window glass to filter out ultraviolet

Also, a railing was built to keep viewers at a distance, and steps taken to keep them from touching the embroidery. The churchwomen made "feelies," small replicas of various figures, and these are mounted to the railing to satisfy tactile temptations. One of these is a lamb made entirely of French knots.

The completed embroidery is "terribly awkward" to handle, Alden said, but it is surprisingly light, only about 90 pounds.

A tapestry or embroidery must rest from four to six weeks each year. This one will be taken down and rolled up and placed in a special case on which the Crewel Needlers are embroidering their names. This is their only official recognition, since the embroidery was a group project. For this reason, too, the real names of John and Priscilla will not be announced publicly.

Creative Satisfaction Found In Weaving

By ROBERT PETERSON

Weaving is probably the oldest craft. As fig leaves and animal skins grew impractical as raiment, man learned to link fibers on a makeshift loom and thus created the craft of weaving.

Weaving is popular in both modern and primitive cultures. In India, Ghandi encouraged followers to learn weaving so they could have at least one remunerative skill and make their own clothing. Weaving means money to vast numbers of people around the globe, but in the United States it's usually a hobby that provides creative satisfaction

Dr Robert G. Buzzard took up weaving in retirement. This former president of Eastern Illinois University had no particular plans in mind when he bid his students and board of trustees goodbye at the age of 65.

"I thought I might do a little writing and fishing," said Dr. Buzzard, who now lives in Tempe, Ariz. "But the day I went to buy angling equipment I happened to see a weaving class in action at a craft shop.

"The lady in charge did an excellent job of kindling my curiosity about weaving. When she invited me to join the class I decided to give it a try. My wife eventually became interested, too, so we both weave now and have our own looms.

Board Revamps Water Rate Plan

By LYNN ZERSCHLING Star Staff Writer

No matter how Lincolnites turn the tap, it is likely that cool, clear water is going to cost more next year.

The first major step toward hiking water rates was taken Monday by the Water Advisory Board, which reworked its proposed water rate plan and forwarded it to the City Council.

A major change in the plan is the phasing in of rate hikes to residential, non-residential and industrial customers over a three-year period.

The ordinance is aimed at restricting water consumption, and thus promoting water conservation, by imposing a financial penalty for increased water

Presently, water customers pay less per unit as consumption increases.

'Base' To Be Computed The proposal calls for a "base" demand to be developed for each customer, which would be computed on the monthly water consumption averaged over the past 12 months. If the water demand during any single monthly exceeded that base, the customer would be charged at least 100% more for that additional water.

Under the increment plan, residential and nonresidential users would be charged 25 cents in 1975, 26 cents in 1976 and 27 cents in 1977 for each 100 cubic feet of water.

industrial users whould be charged 14 cents in 1975, 15 cents in 1976 and 16 cents in 1977 for each 100 cubic feet of water.

Under the present rate system, the residential user is paying an average of 23.5 cents per 100 cubic feet, while larger industrial users are paying an average of 11 cents. Smaller industrial users and large commercial users are paying an average of 17-

Proposal Changed

The revamped ordinance represents a change over the proposal the board held a public hearing

That proposal would have charged a straight 29 cents per 100 cubic feet on residential and nonresidential rates and 15 cents for industrial users.

disparity between residential and industrial rates. Board members said they could justify the differential because it costs the city more to provide water to smaller, independent users than to a large single water user.

The vote to approve the amended ordinance was 4-1. Board members Paul Amen, Dave Gowans. Tom Gorham and Betty Harris voted in favor and Dewey Anderson voted against it. Based On Amount

Anderson argued that the rate structure should be based on the amount of water used by a customer, not whether the costomer fell into one of the broad categories of residential, non-residential or industrial.

Anderson pointed out that some larger commercial customers will have a base demand larger than some small industrial customers, but will be charged the 25-cent rate next year, instead of 14

Board members agreed to review the structure and indicated they may recommend a change to the City Council when the ordinance comes up for a

Judge Rules Such an increase for calender Vote To Fire Teacher Void

Lancaster District Judge William Hastings has held that any action to amend or terminate a teaching contract requires the affirmative vote of the majority of the members of the Nebraska State Colleges Board of Trustees.

In a case brought by Dudley H. Chase, the court held that the board's action did not result in the termination of the plaintiff's contract he is, therefore, employed by Chadron State College.

In his ruling. Hastings noted that on May 24 the board met and a motion to terminate Chase's contract received three votes in favor and one vote against the motion. This, he said, was less than a majority of the members of the board, and was a final action; therefore, it did not terminate the teaching contract of Chase. On June 8, according to the order, a majority of the board did vote to terminate the contract but the court held this vote to be void and of no effect because the final action vote was taken May 24.

By BOB GUENTHER Star Staff Writer

Gov. J. James Exon Monday offered a few peeks at the budget recommendations he will be making to the 1975 Unicameral.

The Exon budget for fiscal 1976. he said, will seek an extra $12-$13 million in state general funds plus $6-$7 million in federal money to cover salary raises for the state's 25,000 employes.

The pay raises, he said, are justified by the fact that Nebraska state employes are "among the lowest paid" in the nation.

Exon, however, did not elaborate on the pay raises nor did he translate the dollars into Legislature to fund a homestead percentage salary increases during a luncheon speech before the Nebraska Tax Research

College Support Urged The governor said he will be recommending a $6-$7 million deficit appropriation to cover the state technical community colleges' operating expenses for the balance of fiscal 1975. The deficit appropriation is necessitated by a Nebraska Supreme Court ruling which struck property tax support for the technical college system. Exon ruled out funding the system through registered warrants for the rest of the year.

He also said he will ask the

Board Revamps Water Rate Plan

By LYNN ZERSCHLING Star Staff Writer

No matter how Lincolnites turn the tap, it is likely that cool, clear water is going to cost more next year.

The first major step toward hiking water rates was taken Monday by the Water Advisory Board, which reworked its proposed water rate plan and forwarded it to the City Council.

A major change in the plan is the phasing in of rate hikes to residential, non-residential and industrial customers over a three-year period. The ordinance is aimed at restricting water consumption, and thus promoting water conservation, by imposing a financial penalty for increased water

Presently, water customers pay less per unit as consumption increases.

'Base' To Be Computed

The proposal calls for a "base" demand to be developed for each customer, which would be computed on the monthly water consumption averaged over the past 12 months. If the water demand during any single monthly exceeded that base, the customer would be charged at least 100% more for that additional water.

Under the increment plan, residential and nonresidential users would be charged 25 cents in 1975. 26 cents in 1976 and 27 cents in 1977 for each 100 cubic feet of water.

Industrial users whould be charged 14 cents in 1975, 15 cents in 1976 and 16 cents in 1977 for each 100 cubic feet of water.

Under the present rate system, the residential user is paying an average of 23.5 cents per 100 cubic feet, while larger industrial users are paying an average of 11 cents. Smaller industrial users and large commercial users are paying an average of 17-

Proposal Changed

The revamped ordinance represents a change over the proposal the board held a public hearing

That proposal would have charged a straight 29 cents per 100 cubic feet on residential and nonresidential rates and 15 cents for industrial users. At that hearing several people criticized the disparity between residential and industrial rates. Board members said they could justify the differential because it costs the city more to provide water to smaller, independent users than to a large single water user. The vote to approve the amended ordinance was 4-1. Board members Paul Amen, Dave Gowans, Tom Gorham and Betty Harris voted in favor and Dewey Anderson voted against it. Based On Amount

Anderson argued that the rate structure should be based on the amount of water used by a customer, not whether the costomer fell into one of the broad categories of residential, non-residential or industrial.

Anderson pointed out that some larger commercial customers will have a base demand larger than some small industrial customers, but will be charged the 25-cent rate next year, instead of 14 cents.

Board members agreed to review the structure and indicated they may recommend a change to the City Council when the ordinance comes up for a public hearing before the lawmakers.

Gov. Exon To Seek State Salary Raises

By BOB GUENTHER

Star Staff Writer Gov. J. James Exon Monday offered a few peeks at the budget recommendations he will be making to the 1975 Unicameral.

The Exon budget for fiscal 1976, he said, will seek an extra $12-$13 million in state general funds plus $6-$7 million in federal money to cover salary raises for the state's 25,000 employes.

The pay raises, he said, are justified by the fact that Nebraska state employes are "among the lowest paid" in the

College Support Urged The governor said he will be recommending a $6-$7 million deficit appropriation to cover the state technical community colleges' operating expenses for the balance of fiscal 1975. The deficit appropriation is necessitated by a Nebraska Supreme Court ruling which struck property tax support for the technical college system.

Exon ruled out funding the system through registered warrants for the rest of the year. He also said he will ask the exemption law enacted by the Legislature last year. However, he said he has not decided on how much to seek. Earlier revenue forecasts projected it will cost roughly $3.5 million. Budget 'Very Austere'

All of these additional expenditures, Exon said, mean the rest of the budget "will be very austere indeed.

'Government,' he said,' 'must start furnishing the leadership in the fight against in-. . but must meet the legitimate needs of the state."

As a result, he said, "There is going to be an awful lot of the frills and an awful lot of the fat and an awful lot of spending recommendations from the various state agencies that will not be met in our budget.

"The special interest groups - and I don't mean that in a derrogatory way, they're fine people — are going to be down wanting all kinds of money for all kinds of different things, and we're not going to be able to provide all of that money unless we face up to the fact we're going to dictate a tax increase in November of next year." Sales, Income Tax Hikes

Such an increase for calender 1976 would be in both the state sales and income taxes, he said.

Exon said he hopes a "spirit of cooperation and understanding" exists between the executive and legislative branches this winter.

In an unusual action, Exon complimented and thanked Republican Frank Marsh, the current lieutenant governor and state treasurer-elect, for his cooperation during Exon's first

Help City Mission Council To

The City Council came to the aid of the Peoples' City Mission Monday night by appropriating $22,637 in revenue sharing dollars to help keep the program going until the end of the year.

The Rev. Jerry Dunn, director of the mission at 124 S. 9th, said the program is "in dire (financial) need" since donations from churches have brought in only $6,800 this year, instead of the budgeted $30,200.

It's Pumpkin Pie Time

There's a break in the action on the Nebraska football front and it's time to think about turkey and dressing and pumpkin pie and give thanks to the Cornhuskers for a fine gridiron

I dug out an old recipe for pumpkin pie I've used for many years and baked a couple of pies for the Star staff Sunday afternoon in between watching some football on television.

Everyone liked it so well I'm passing it on to our readers. In fact, Randy York, prep sports editor, said, "It's the best pumpkin pie I've ever eaten.

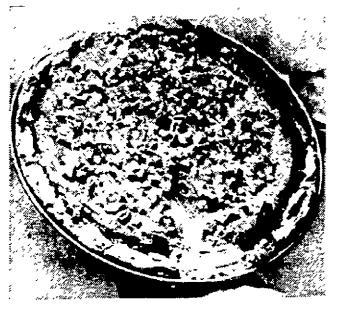

Follow the directions to the letter and you'll agree. It's called "Crunch Pumpkin Pie."

Ingredients: 2 eggs, 34 cup sugar, 1 teaspoon cinnamon, 32 teaspoon ground cloves, 1 can (1 lb.) or 1% cups cooked, mashed pumpkin, ½ teaspoon salt, ½ teaspoon ginger, 1 can (13 ounces) or 1 2/3 cup evaporated milk or light cream, 3 tablespoons butter, ½ cup finely chopped pecans, 1/3 cup brown sugar, packed, 1 unbaked 9 inch pastry shell.

Instructions: Beat eggs. Add pumpkin, sugar, salt, cinnamon, ginger, cloves and milk. Stir well to mix. Pour into unbaked pastry shell. Bake in 400 degrees oven about 50 minutes. To test, run a silver knife into the center of the filling and if it comes out clean, the pie is done. Cover the top surface with the mixture of brown sugar, butter and pecans. Place under a hot broiler for 3 minutes until top is bubbly. Watch this operation

I'll guarantee you'll enjoy this pie after your Thanksgiving dinner.

P.S. - Resume your diet Friday morning.

Huskers Lauded For Ability To Bounce Back

By BOB OWENS Star Sports Editor

Coach Tom Osborne and members of his Nebraska football staff hit the recruiting trail Monday, leaving athletic director Bob Devaney and freshman coach Jim Ross to discuss Saturday's 28-14 loss to Oklahoma to a good turnout at the last weekly luncheon meeting of the Extra Point Club.

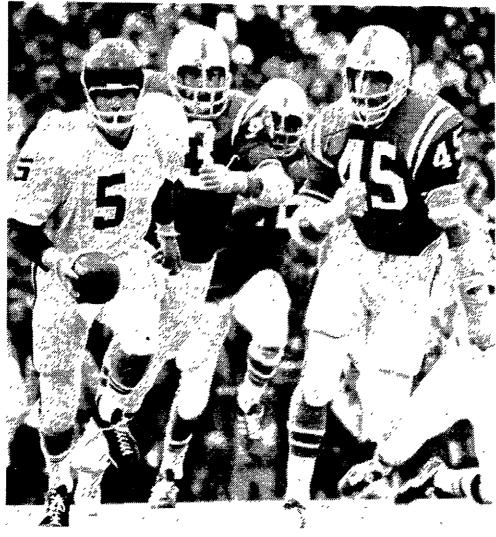

"I think we were beaten by a better football team," Devaney said, but he had nothing but praise for the effort of the Cornhuskers throughout the Big Eight Conference season.

"The players and coaches bounced back after a couple of disappointing losses, especially after the Missouri game when it looked like the end of the bowl consideration and the Big Eight championship out the window," Devaney remarked.

"The coaches brought the team back to play a good Kansas team the next week. They got everything out of the players that could have been gotten out of them.'

Looking ahead to the Sugar Bowl game against Florida, Devaney said, "These kids still have a chance to finish the season with positive thoughts by winning the Sugar Bowl game. Florida is a good team, but with proper preparation — and a win — the team can finish the season with a good feeling."

Devaney, who took his 1966 Nebraska team to the Sugar Bowl, said New Orleans is a good city to play a bowl in, "but I've forgotten about

Neinas Foresees Little Trouble With Bowl Pact

Kansas City (AP) - The two years and in each case the pear on television in any post-Big Eight Conference contract with the Orange Bowl, effective next year, is unlikely to produce the intraconference bitterness experienced by Michigan and Ohio State in the Big Ten.

The Big Eight's contract with the Orange Bowl commits the conference champion to the New Year's Day festival in Miami through the 1978 season.

Chuck Neinas, Big Eight commissioner, noted Monday that in case of a conference tie. the Orange Bowl Committee, not conference athletic directors, will vote on who gets the invitation.

The Big Ten Conference champion automatically goes to the Rose Bowl in Pasadena, Calif., to meet the Pacific Eight champ. In case of a tie, Big Ten abbletic directors decide on a secret ballot who will represent the league.

Gibson Leaves K-State; Critical Time For 'Pride'

Kansas State football Coach Vince Gibson, whose Wildcats suffered a 1-6 Big Eight Conference season, announced his resignation late Monday.

"I've decided that I'm going to leave Kansas State and the reason I'm going to leave Kansas State, I just feel right now is a critical time for our football program and our university," said Gibson.

K-State broke a seven-game losing streak last Saturday with a 33-19 upset of Colorado.

Gibson, 41, came to K-State in 1967 from Tennessee, where he was the defensive coach from 1964 through 1966. His teams have compiled a 33-52 record

The effervescent Gibson arrived at Manhattan promising, "We're gonna win," and he sought to instill pride in purple, K-State's color. Purple Pride had its best moment in 1970, when the Wildcats finished second in the Big Eight.

His over-all record this season

Gibson, speaking late Monday with a Manhattan radio station, said:

"By leaving Kansas State I feel that Kansas State can unite again ning season this next year. By my leaving I think we can have everybody united and everybody back in our program and we'll have a chance to do well. I think that these kids deserve to go to a bowl game . . . The only way they're going to do it is to fill the stadium and know they have people behind them.

"... A lot of people think I was the cause for the frustration and probably I was. I feel that by taking myself out of the way I will give Ernie (Athletic Director Ernie Barrett) and people in the athletic department a better chance to succeed.'

Gibson closed his career hounded by K-State alumni, hungry for Big Eight respectability and frustrated by his 33 victories in eight years.

In the seven years before Gibson's arrival, K-State football teams won eight games.

Eight members of Nebraska's football team are on the All-American checklist of the Football Writers Association team which now is being selected. They include quarterback Dave Humm, offensive linemen Tom Alward and Marvin Crenshaw, center Rick Bonness, I-back Tony Davis, end Bob Martin, tackle Ron Pruitt and linebacker Tom Ruud. Writers also can vote for players not on the list.

UCLA's dethroned NCAA champions defeated Athletes In Action 80-60 last Friday in an exhibition game. Dave Myers, the only returning starter, 7-footers Richard Washington and Ralph Drollinger, and guard Pete Tryovich all scored in double figures, 15-13-13-12, respectively.

Bruin coach John Wooden says he favors adoption of the 30second clock. "I've also suggested that we do away with the offensive rebound basket, making the rebounding player pass the ball before a shot could be taken," he said. "I would also like to see the elimination of all jump balls."

UCLA will play 16 home games this season, but makes a trip east at Christmas time to play in the Maryland holiday invitational. The opener is Friday against Wichita State, a team which will play in Lincoln Dec. 14 against the Huskers.

One of the early season matchups of rated teams will find Indiana at Kansas on Dec. 4. The following night, Southern Methodist (NU's opening round foe in the Indiana classic) will play at Kansas State.

Huskers Lauded For Ability To Bounce Back

Coach Tom Osborne and members of his Nebraska football staff hit the recruiting trail Monday, leaving athletic director Bob Devaney and freshman coach Jim Ross to discuss Saturday's 28-14 loss to Oklahoma to a good turnout at the last weekly luncheon meeting of the

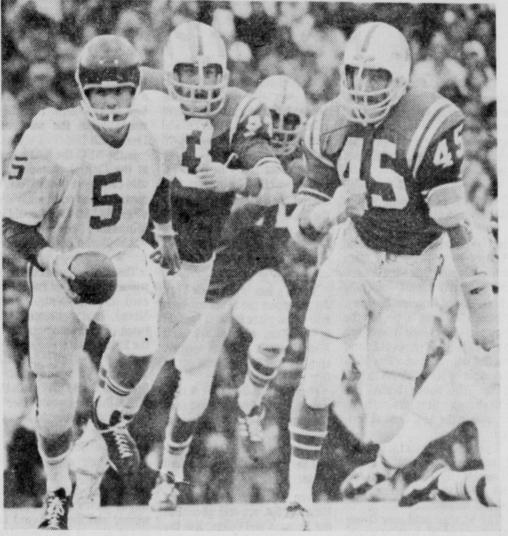

"I think we were beaten by a better football team," Devaney said, but he had nothing but praise for the effort of the Cornhuskers throughout the Big Eight Conference season.

"The players and coaches bounced back after a couple of disappointing losses, especially after the Missouri game when it looked like the end of the bowl consideration and the Big Eight championship out the window," Devaney remarked.

"The coaches brought the team back to play a good Kansas team the next week. They got everything out of the players that could have been gotten out of them.

Looking ahead to the Sugar Bowl game against Florida, Devaney said, "These kids still have a chance to finish the season with positive thoughts by winning the Sugar Bowl game. Florida is a good team, but with proper preparation — and a win — the team can finish the season with a good feeling."

Devaney, who took his 1966 Nebraska team to the Sugar Bowl, said New Orleans is a good city to play a bowl in, "but I've forgotten about

Big Eight Conference contract with the Orange Bowl, effective next year, is unlikely to produce the intraconference bitterness experienced by Michigan and Ohio State in the Big Ten.

The Big Eight's contract with the Orange Bowl commits the conference champion to the New Year's Day festival in Miami through the 1978 season.

Chuck Neinas, Big Eight commissioner, noted Monday that in case of a conference tie, the Orange Bowl Committee, not conference athletic directors, will vote on who gets the invitation.

The Big Ten Conference champion automatically goes to the Rose Bowl in Pasadena, Calif., to meet the Pacific Eight champ. In case of a tie, Big Ten ahhletic directors decide on a secret ballot who will represent the league.

Although the conference itself would not take part in selecting an Orange Bowl team in case of a conference tie, there still could be controversy over the committee's decision.

Gibson Leaves K-State; Critical Time For 'Pride'

Kansas State football Coach Vince Gibson, whose Wildcats suffered a 1-6 Big Eight Conference season, announced his resignation late Monday.

"I've decided that I'm going to leave Kansas State and the reason I'm going to leave Kansas State, I just feel right now is a critical time for our football program and our university,' said Gibson.

K-State broke a seven-game losing streak last Saturday with a 33-19 upset of Colorado.

Gibson, 41, came to K-State in 1967 from Tennessee, where he was the defensive coach from 1964 through 1966. His teams have compiled a 33-52 record

Oil Driller Hargrove AL Rookie Of The Year

defensively.

NEW YORK (UPI) - First baseman Mike Hargrove, an oil driller a year ago and not even on the Texas Rangers' spring training roster last April, was named the American League's Rookie of the Year for 1974 Monday in a runaway vote by the Baseball Writers Association of America.

The honor gave Texas two of the three main BBWA awards for the season. Last week, outfielder Jeff Burroughs was selected as the AL's most valuable player.

The 23-year-old Hargrove of Perrytown, the Rangers' first native Texan on the roster, received 16-1/2 first place ballots from the 24-man voting committee. Shortstop Bucky Dent of the Chicago White Sox was a distant second with three votes.

George Brett, a Kansas City Royals third baseman, drew two votes for third place, shortstop Rick Burleson of the Boston Redsox finished fourth with 1-1/2 and Hargrove's teammate, catcher Jim Sundberg collected the other first place

Hargrove drove in 66 runs and led Texas with a .323 batting average after hitting .351 with Gastonia of the Western Carolina league in 1973, his second season of pro ball.

"I was really excited when I learned of the award this morning," Hargrove said. "At first it was a little hard to believe...you never think it's going to happen to you. Gee whiz, last year I was working in the oil fields in the Texas panhandle, freezing to death and now here I am in Dallas playing professional baseball and really enjoying life."

Hargrove said he had no specific goals in 1974, "except to fourth for the Rangers this big bat.

Hargrove's .323 was second in the A.L. to the .364 league leading average of Minnesota's Rod Carew. Burroughs batted .301 as Texas finished runnerup to the world champion Oakland A's in the American League "I think the award tells you that we have a pretty good ball club," beamed Hargrove. "Whenever you get an award like this, it's more of a team award. With Jeff hitting in front of me and getting all those RBI's, it made my job a whole lot easier.

"You've got to be thankful you played for a good team because that's what made it possible."

Hargrove's major league debut was an instant success. He batted .371 through his first 59 games.

Martin said he noticed almost immediately "that Hargrove knew his strike zone. He isn't fooled often. A pitcher may get him out the first couple of times, then, look out! And what's more he has the glove to go with his

Just before the 1974 season, Kansas State quarterback Steve Grogan said he thought that if he had a good year, he might be a No. I draft choice of the pros.

Grogan was hampered with a lingering neck injury much of the year, but he finished the season in a blaze of glory. In Kansas State's 33-19 triumph over highly favored Colorado, Grogan hit on nine of 13 passes for 120 yards and one touchdown to lead him to Big Eight Conference offensive Player of the Week honors.

Grogan beat out Oklahoma's Steve Davis, who likewise had an impressive game last Saturday against Nebraska.

Other nominees were Mike Williams of Iowa State, Dave Humm of Nebraska, Skip Taylor of Oklahoma State, Laverne Smith of Kansas, Tony Galbreath of Missouri and Harvey Goodman of Colorado.

Coach Darrell Royal of the University of Texas said he didn't offer his players a chance to vote on whether they wanted to go to the Gator Bowl this year. "I told them we were going and said anybody that doesn't want to go, don't load up," Royal said.

The Memphis Press-Scimitar said the CBS television network will probably televise WFL games in the 1976 season if the troubled league proves its credibility next year.

Tennessee coach Bill Battle has asked Volunteer quarterback Condredge Holloway to stay at the university as a coach. Detroit Lions quarterback Bill Munson came through two hours of surgery in good shape, according to the NFL team's spokesman. Munson separated his shoulder in the Lions' victory over the Chicago Bears Sunday.

Duane Thomas has been promised a starting role against his old team when the Washington Redskins meet the Dallas Cowboys in a Thanksgiving Day game. Should the Redskins defeat the Cowboys, it would eliminate Dallas from post-season NFL championship contention for the first time in eight years.

Oklahoma State's 1975 football clash with North Texas State has been moved to Stillwater, Cowboy Athletic Director Floyd Gass announced. The game was moved for "reasons financially beneficial to both schools," he said.

The Southwest Research Institute will make a two year study of football head and neck injuries and try to develop better standards for helmets, institute officials announced.

Fritz Shurmur, who expected his 1974 team would be a Western Athletic Conference contender but wound up 2-9 and in last place, was fired as head football coach of the University of Wyoming.

Centerfielder Ken Henderson of the Chicago White Sox has been named Player of the Year by the Chicago Baseball Writers and will receive an award at the annual Diamond Dinner Jan.

Carl Yastrzemski, who hit over .300 for the sixth time in his 14 major league seasons, was named the Boston Red Sox' most valuable player by the Boston Baseball Writers.

Chicago Cubs manager Jim Marshall named two assistant coaches for the 1975 season, Jack Bloomfield and Jim Saul, leaving one vacancy on the staff. The New York Yankees hired former major league catcher and manager Birdie Tebbetts as a scout on the major league level and said Leo Posada, former Kansas City outfielder, has joined the club for an undetermined minor league assignment. Funeral services were held for Clarence Edward Twomblev Jr., a major league baseball player with the Chicago Cubs half a century ago.

Although owner Charles O. Finley refused to name any names, Oakland A's slugger Reggie Jackson says, "I expect to be traded within three weeks." Reports have hinted that Jackson might be traded to the Baltimore Orioles or a National League

BASKETBALL

Officials of the Spirits of St. Louis said they have not heard from rookie Marvin Barnes.

X-rays of John Havlicek's injured right knee proved inconclusive and the Boston Celtic forward was scheduled to play Wednesday night against Seattle. Team trainers said there is still _ a possibility that there is a torn cartilage. Mike Storen, angered at city officials over conditions of his

FOOTBALL

Just before the 1974 season, Kansas State quarterback Steve Grogan said he thought that if he had a good year, he might be a No. 1 draft choice of the pros.

Grogan was hampered with a lingering neck injury much of the year, but he finished the season in a blaze of glory. In Kansas State's 33-19 triumph over highly favored Colorado, Grogan hit on nine of 13 passes for 120 yards and one touchdown to lead him to Big Eight Conference offensive Player of the Week honors.

Grogan beat out Oklahoma's Steve Davis, who likewise had an impressive game last Saturday against Nebraska.

Other nominees were Mike Williams of Iowa State, Dave Humm of Nebraska, Skip Taylor of Oklahoma State, Laverne Smith of Kansas, Tony Galbreath of Missouri and Harvey Goodman of Colorado.

Coach Darrell Royal of the University of Texas said he didn't offer his players a chance to vote on whether they wanted to go to the Gator Bowl this year. "I told them we were going and said anybody that doesn't want to go, don't load up," Royal the troubled league proves its credibility next year. Texas Lutheran (10-0) will host Missouri Valley (10-0-1) in the NAIA Division II championship football game Dec. 7 at Matador Stadium in Seguin, Tex.

Tennessee coach Bill Battle has asked Volunteer quarterback Condredge Holloway to stay at the university as a coach. Detroit Lions quarterback Bill Munson came through two hours of surgery in good shape, according to the NFL team's spokesman. Munson separated his shoulder in the Lions' victory over the Chicago Bears Sunday. Duane Thomas has been promised a starting role against his old team when the Washington Redskins meet the Dallas Cowboys in a Thanksgiving Day game. Should the Redskins defeat the Cowboys, it would eliminate Dallas from post-season NFL championship contention for the first time in eight years.

Oklahoma State's 1975 football clash with North Texas State has been moved to Stillwater, Cowboy Athletic Director Floyd Gass announced. The game was moved for "reasons financially beneficial to both schools," he said.

The Southwest Research Institute will make a two year study of football head and neck injuries and try to develop better standards for helmets, institute officials announced.

Fritz Shurmur, who expected his 1974 team would be a Western Athletic Conference contender but wound up 2-9 and in last place, was fired as head football coach of the University of Wyoming.

Centerfielder Ken Henderson of the Chicago White Sox has been named Player of the Year by the Chicago Baseball Writers and will receive an award at the annual Diamond Dinner Jan.

Carl Yastrzemski, who hit over .300 for the sixth time in his 14 major league seasons, was named the Boston Red Sox' most valuable player by the Boston Baseball Writers.

Chicago Cubs manager Jim Marshall named two assistant coaches for the 1975 season, Jack Bloomfield and Jim Saul, leaving one vacancy on the staff.

The New York Yankees hired former major league catcher and manager Birdie Tebbetts as a scout on the major league level and said Leo Posada, former Kansas City outfielder, has joined the club for an undetermined minor league assignment.

Officials of the Spirits of St. Louis said they have not heard from rookie Marvin Barnes.

X-rays of John Havlicek's injured right knee proved inconclusive and the Boston Celtic forward was scheduled to play Wednesday night against Seattle. Team trainers said there is still a possibility that there is a torn cartilage. Mike Storen, angered at city officials over conditions of his lease at the Mid-South Coliseum, threatened to move the Memphis Sounds of the ABA from Memphis.

The West Coast Athletic Conference voted to permit Nevada-Las Vegas to leave the conference after the 1974-75 basketball season, a conference spokesman announced.

Guard Rick Mount, leading scorer of the Memphis Sounds of the ABA, will be out of the lineup for three to four weeks because of a shoulder separation, a team spokesman said.

OTHER SPORTS

Jimmy Connors of Belleville, Ill. rallied from a slow start and wore down fellow American Arthur Ashe 7-6, 6-3, 6-1 in winning the men's singles title for the second straight year in the South African Open Tennis Championships.

In the women's doubles final, Ilana Kloss of South Africa and Kerry Melville of Australia beat the Australian team of Margaret Court and Diana Fromholtz 6-2, 6-3.

Bill Macassin, a hero in tennis circles as a result of his disqualification of lie Nastase in the U.S. Clay Court Championships last summer, has been admonished by the U.S. Lawn Tennis Association for his action during the tournament. Macassin's action was applauded at the time by tennis buffs and in the press and on radio and television.

McDonald Captures Top Lincoln Women's Score

By BOB MOYER

For most sports competitors, part of the thrill of it all is the cheers of the crowd and knowing your skills are being admired by the fans.

But' Marilyn McDonald was hoping no one would notice she was on the verge of getting the first 300 ever bowled by a woman in a sanctioned Lincoln league Sunday night.

She missed the 300, garnering a 296, but that still remains the best single game ever shot in Liftcoln by a woman, according to long-time men's bowling secretary Bernie Kossek and women's bowling secretary Maxine Meyer.

"I'm sure no woman has ever bowled a 300," Kossek notes. "I believe that in the 1930s Lucille Hőrák had a 289 game and that was "the best game for a

Marilyn bowls in three leagues, one each at Parkway. Hollywood and Plaza. She has approximately a 172 average in all three leagues.

Marilyn, who was subbing in the Lincoln Mixed League Sunday night, had a 600 series to go with her 296, including games of 138 and 166.

"I had five splits in the first game," she noted. "In the second game, I moved a little and the ball started coming in and I started getting good count."

Marilyn says she started bowling 14 zears ago. The first year she bowled she had "around a 100 average. I think I improved through determination mostly.'

She thinks that the most important thing for a beginning woman bowler is to "find a spot and not move around. So many women move all over."

A right-handed bowler, she describes her ball as "not straight but, not a curve either. Mostly I bowl over the first conference policies in the wake arrow and just try to get good lift on the ball."

The 296 is definitely Marilyn's greatest thrill in bowling. "That's an experience I'll ler has publicly admitted being on Big Ten probation, but that didn't stop him from criticizing

Why restrict the Big Ten to the Rose Bowl," Schembechler angrily asked Monday in a talk before the Michigan "M" Club. "You tell me that's a proper philosophy? It's got to be changed. Let's let other teams go to other bowls.

"Otherwise, I'd be in favor of opening it up and telling the bowl people that if we don't go to the Rose Bowl, we're available to play in their bowl games.

We darn well might go, Big Ten for 10 years now."

The league has a contract with the Pacific Eight conference that the Big Ten will send one representative to the Rose Bowl and exclude other conference teams from participating in other bowls. Schembechler spoke later at a news luncheon. He reportedly is on two years probation for his criticism of last year's vote of Big Ten athletic directors. That vote sent Ohio State to the Rose Bowl for the second straight year after the Buckeyes tied Michigan 10-10 to finish in a title tie with the Wolverines.

Asked if in fact he was on probation, Schembechler said with a shrug and a slight grin: "Oh, I think so. It'll probably go

McDonald Captures Top Lincoln Women's Score

By BOB MOYER

For most sports competitors, part of the thrill of it all is the cheers of the crowd and knowing your skills are being admired by

But Marilyn McDonald was hoping no one would notice she was on the verge of getting the first 300 ever bowled by a woman in a sanctioned Lincoln league Sunday night.

She missed the 300, garnering a 296, but that still remains the best single game ever shot in Lincoln by a woman, according to long-time men's bowling secretary Bernie Kossek and women's bowling secretary Maxine Meyer.

"I'm sure no woman has ever bowled a 300," Kossek notes. "I believe that in the 1930s Lucille Horak had a 289 game and that was the best game for a woman.'

"I was hoping no one would notice me bowling," Marilyn laughed. "But everybody started crowding in and oh, that silence!

Marilyn actually had 12 strikes in a row as she got one in the last frame of her second game and then reeled off 11 more before getting six on her last shot of the third game.

"No, I don't have any regrets," said Marilyn. "I'm pleased with it because my shot in the eighth frame was a lucky break. I just lucked out on it." Marilyn said she didn't start to get nervous until that eighth

"I threw the ball high and it carried," she recalled. "Then I got a strike in the 9th, 10th and 11th . . . and then I was so dizzy . . . ," she laughed.

"I put that last shot out, but I didn't get any lift on it. It's really probably never see again."

Marilyn bowls in three leagues, one each at Parkway, Hollywood and Plaza. She has approximately a 172 average in all three leagues.

San Francisco - The man in the white coat drove up in a yellow tow car. He said: "Having a little trouble?"

Meant it friendly I imagine. Still, I'd been grinding on the starter for half an hour. I mean I didn't invite him over to discuss real estate.

He flipped open the hood. Jiggled a few things. "Now step on it," he said. I stepped. The car burst into life.

He dropped the hood. "Needle valve stuck," he said. "They do that."

Man that is everybody's problem. We rise with the morning sun. Filled with fuel. We step on the starter. The needle valve sticks.

Ready to drive. Stuck in the driveway.

A few years ago I bought a Japanese four-wheeler. It runs well. At one time we had serious trouble with the Japanese, and you were a traitor if you so much as ate a sukiyaki dinner.

Now we've resolved these differences. My flashlight runs on Japanese dry cells. My transistor radio is made by Sony. My camera by Yashica.

It's improved life. Another reason I'm against war. It cuts out too many good things of life. * * * The AAA road service man did not repair this Japanese bomb as easily as all that. They like a littie trouble. He wrenched a few things off the interior. He said: "It could need a new gas pump." I said: "There goes the Thanksgiving turkey.' He said: "Have you tried the new Mazda? Now, just step on the starter again." The engine popped a few times. Then it decided to quit. * * * I said: "I'm going inside for some coffee. If it ever starts, let me know. I got the coffee and read the paper. Oil is a problem. The Arabs have too much oil and too much money. A lot of statesmen around the world deny that we might have to send soldiers around to the oil countries if they don't stop this inhumanity.

Every once in awhile the big powers do send warships around. They announce it is for "humanitarian reasons."

AAA man. "How'd you happen to buy a Japanese car?" I said: "I was engaged with them once for humanitarian reasons." **☆ ☆ ☆

A few years ago I flew out from Riji and we circled one of those sunny islands. The coco trees - once ragged from shellfire - have grown tall and lacy again. A few half-sunk hulks of amphibious craft are stuck offshore. The turquoise water wishes through them. They're a fine hideaway for little reef fish. There are rusted Quonset huts back of the beach.

Sometimes when the rains come, a skull washes up. But nobody knows which side he was on. Both sides were humanitarian. So maybe it doesn't matter.

* * *

The man in the white coat said: "Wait'll I shoot a little gas in the carburetor. Now. Turn it over." (The engine went roar, roar. Then it stopped.) (c) Chronicle Pub. Co. 1974

GWU Hits $246 Million Grower Suit

New York (AP) - Great Western United Corp. said Monday it would "vigorously defend" itself in a $246 million suit brought by a Kansas sugar beet grower on behalf of growers who supply GWU's subsidiary, Great Western Sugar.

The class action suit, filed Friday in U.S. District Court in Denver, seeks damages of $246 million, alleged to be the amount GWU underpaid the growers in its initial installment of the 1974 beet crop.

'Under nomal court procedures, the matter cannot be adjudicated until after the growers would have received payment in full pursuant to the terms of the contract." GWU stated.

In the suit Davis Cattle Co., Inc., of Goodland, Kan., alleges that GWU has failed to meet the conditions of its contract with its growers, some 4.000 in all

The suit contends that GWU told growers they would receive $26.25 per ton, excluding a $2.33 per ton federal subsidy, for their beets grown this year and harvested through the winter.

This initial payment is supposed to be 85% of the final amount, the suit says.

But the suit says nine days later GWU told stockholders it expected to receive $53 per 100 pounds for refined sugar from the 1974 crop, a figure from the 1974 crop, a figure equal to $94.83 per ton for sugarbeets.

Based on that estimate, the suit claims that GWU owes the growers initial payment of $80.61 per ton for the 4.5 million tons of sugarbeets not the $27.25 a ton offered.

The suit says GWU has used the money claimed by the growers to pay investors' requirements, and to defeat an attempted takeover by N.B. and W.H. Hunt of Dallas, Tex.

Meanwhile, in Dallas, an attorney for the Hunts charged Monday that the suit to stop them from gaining control of Great Western United Corp. is an attempt by certain incompetent company officials to stay in office.

Robert Sweet, GWU lawver. charged the Hunts violated federal securities regulations in making a tender offer to purchase 910,000 shares of GWU common stock at $27.50 per share.

The Hunts are sons of oil billionaire H. L. Hunt of Dallas, The suit was transferred from New York to Dallas.

Stock Mart Prices Slip; Trade Slow

New York (AP) — The stock market, still hobbled by recession worries, limped to a mild decline Monday in the slowest trading in four weeks.

The Dow Jones average of 30 industrials slipped 3.36 to 611.94. and the New York Stock Exchange composite index showed an equally narrow. 06 decline at 36.53.

Losers outnumbered gainers 793 to 559 among the 1,796 issues traded on the Big Board.

NYSE volume, at 11.30 million shares, was the lightest since a 10.54 million-share day Oct. 28. The erratic pattern of the session began with a mild advance credited to rising hopes for a coal strike settlement in the wake of Sunday night's agreement on a revised tentative con-But the best the Dow could manage was a gain of about 2 points, and the upswing shortly gave way to a gradual but steady retreat that pushed the Dow down about 8 points at its lowest level an hour before the close. In the final 60 minutes, some scattered and selective bargain hunting appeared. Analysts noted that news reflecting the economic slump continued to set the dominant theme in the market. In addition to the newest layoffs and cutbacks in the auto industry, brokers pointed out that a few corporate earnings reports seemed to be starting to show the effects of the recession. Sears, Roebuck, for example, reported at midday that its per share earnings for the third quarter ended Oct. 31 came to cents in the like period last year. The stock of the nation's largest retailer slid 1% to 44.

only 70 cents, compared with 99

American Telephone & Telegraph, the day's most-active issue, declined 1/8 to 42%. The issue has been actively traded since the Justice Department filed an antitrust suit against hte company last week.

Great Western United preferred, second among the volume leaders, was off 1/8 at 15% in trading that included a 111,300-share block at 1614.

Dropping copper prices clipped such copper issues as Pheips Dodge, down 11/2 at 291/4; Kennecott Copper, off 1 at 36%; and Anaconda, down % at 1514.

In coal stocks, North American Coal rose 1% to 25% and Pittston inched up 1/4 to 35.

Kirby Industries, trading for the first time on the American Stock Exchange since the company detailed a reorganization plan a few days ago, bounced up 11% to 264.

The Amex market-value index was off .52 at 63.31.

In the over-the-counter market, the NASDAQ composite index closed at 61.68, down .39.

San Francisco - The man in the white coat drove up in a yellow tow car. He said: "Having a little trouble?"

Meant it friendly I imagine. Still, I'd been grinding on the starter for half an hour. I mean I didn't invite him over to discuss

He flipped open the hood. Jiggled a few things. "Now step on it," he said. I stepped. The car burst into life.

He dropped the hood. "Needle valve stuck," he said. "They do that."

Man that is everybody's problem. We rise with the morning sun. Filled with fuel. We step on the starter. The needle

A few years ago I bought a Japanese four-wheeler. It runs well. At one time we had serious trouble with the Japanese, and you were a traitor if you so much as ate a sukiyaki dinner.

Now we've resolved these differences. My flashlight runs on Japanese dry cells. My transistor radio is made by Sony. My camera by Yashica.

It's improved life. Another reason I'm against war. It cuts out too many good things of life. 公 公 公

The AAA road service man did not repair this Japanese bomb as easily as all that. They like a little trouble.

He wrenched a few things off the interior. He said: "It could need a new gas pump.'

I said: "There goes the Thanksgiving turkey. He said: "Have you tried the

GWU Hits $246 Million Grower Suit

New York (AP) - Great Western United Corp. said Monday it would "vigorously defend" itself in a $246 million suit brought by a Kansas sugar beet grower on behalf of growers who supply GWU's subsidiary, Great Western Sugar.

The class action suit, filed Friday in U.S. District Court in Denver, seeks damages of $246 million, alleged to be the amount GWU underpaid the growers in its initial installment of the 1974 beet crop.

"Under nomal court procedures, the matter cannot be adjudicated until after the growers would have received payment in full pursuant to the terms of the contract," GWU

In the suit Davis Cattle Co., Inc., of Goodland, Kan., alleges that GWU has failed to meet the conditions of its contract with its growers, some 4,000 in all posed to be 85% of the final amount, the suit says.

The suit contends that GWU told growers they would receive $26.25 per ton, excluding a $2.33 per ton federal subsidy, for their beets grown this year and harvested through the winter.

later GWU told stockholders it expected to receive $53 per 100 pounds for refined sugar from the 1974 crop, a figure from the 1974 crop, a figure equal to $94.83 per ton for sugarbeets.

Based on that estimate, the suit claims that GWU owes the growers initial payment of $80.61 per ton for the 4.5 million tons of sugarbeets not the $27.25 a ton

The suit says GWU has used the money claimed by the growers to pay investors' requirements, and to defeat an attempted takeover by N.B. and torney for the Hunts charged Monday that the suit to stop them from gaining control of Great Western United Corp. is an attempt by certain incompetent company officials to stay in office.

charged the Hunts violated federal securities regulations in making a tender offer to purchase 910,000 shares of GWU common stock at $27.50 per

The Hunts are sons of oil billionaire H. L. Hunt of Dallas.

Stock Mart Prices Slip; Trade Slow

New York (AP) - The stock market, still hobbled by recession worries, limped to a mild decline Monday in the slowest trading in four weeks.

The Dow Jones average of 30 industrials slipped 3.36 to 611.94. and the New York Stock Exchange composite index showed an equally narrow. 06 decline at 36.53.

Losers outnumbered gainers 793 to 559 among the 1,796 issues traded on the Big Board.

NYSE volume, at 11.30 million shares, was the lightest since a 10.54 million-share day Oct. 28.

The erratic pattern of the session began with a mild advance credited to rising hopes for a coal strike settlement in the wake of Sunday night's agreement on a revised tentative con-

But the best the Dow could manage was a gain of about 2 points, and the upswing shortly gave way to a gradual but steady retreat that pushed the Dow down about 8 points at its lowest level an hour before the close.

In the final 60 minutes, some scattered and selective bargain hunting appeared.

Analysts noted that news reflecting the economic slump continued to set the dominant theme in the market.

In addition to the newest layoffs and cutbacks in the auto industry, brokers pointed out that a few corporate earnings reports seemed to be starting to show the effects of the recession.

Sears, Roebuck, for example, reported at midday that its per share earnings for the third quarter ended Oct. 31 came to only 70 cents, compared with 99 cents in the like period last year.

The stock of the nation's largest retailer slid 1% to 44.

American Telephone & Telegraph, the day's most-active issue, declined 1/8 to 425/8. The issue has been actively traded since the Justice Department filed an antitrust suit against hte company last week.

Great Western United preferred, second among the volume leaders, was off 1/8 at 15% in trading that included a 111,300-share block at 161/4.

Dropping copper prices clipped such copper issues as Phelps Dodge, down 11/2 at 291/4; Kennecott Copper, off 1 at 365/8; and Anaconda, down % at 151/4.

In coal stocks, North American Coal rose 11/8 to 253/4 and Pittston inched up 1/8 to 35.

Kirby Industries, trading for the first time on the American Stock Exchange since the company detailed a reorganization plan a few days ago, bounced up

The Amex market-value index was off .52 at 63.31.

In the over-the-counter market, the NASDAQ composite index closed at 61.68, down .39.

Deflation Of Economy Said In 'Very Early Stages' Now

Farm Editor

Livestock producers are facing horrid losses, grain producers have little danger of producing a surplus in 1975 and the deflation of the economy has begun, according to speakers at the Nebraska Tax Research Council meeting Monday.

seems to be working in the very early stages," said Glenn H. Miller Jr. of the economic and research division of the Federal Reserve Bank at Kansas City,

Miller noted that the demand for many products had been reduced to the point that shortages had begun to clear up, a process he predicted would soon result in some price drops. 'Patience Needed'

Power Station Delay Could Be Expensive

Washington (UPI) -Members of the Nebraska congressional delegation Monday filed a petition to intervene with the Federal Power Commission (FPC) in efforts to stop construction delay at the Gentleman Power Station which could cost Nebraskans some $50 million, Sen. Carl T. Curtis, R-Neb., said.

The action was taken, Curtis said, "because of a cease and desist order of the FPC to stop all ongoing construction of the Gerald Gentleman steam power plant being built by the Nebraska Public Power District."

The FPC issued the order on Oct. 25 in a suit brought by the Sierra Club.

Curtis said work on the Gentleman station at Sutherland had been progressing for nearly a year, and was scheduled to be completed in 1978.

"A delay at this time could mean postponement of the project until 1979," Curtis said. 'That could mean as much as $50 million increase in the cost

'The Nebraska Public Power District has satisfied all requirements of state law in preparation of construction of the Gentleman station," Curtis said. "NPPD prepared a comprehensive environmental impact study and received the approval of the Nebraska Department of Environmental Control. "There should be no issue at all about the safety and need of the Gentleman plant," he added. "After having attempts to stop the Sutherland construction dismissed by courts in Nebraska, the Sierra Club filed suit with the FPC as a last effort to stop construction of this badly needed facility.'

The Sierra Club wanted to have scrubbers installed at the Gentleman station, Curtis said, "But these are unproven and have been found to be grossly in-

> Hughes noted that the many unsold homes will delay any rise in new housing starts any time

Hughes said the increase in interest rates hadn't cooled the demand for credit because "a businessman looking at 12% interest to buy an item that will go up to 20% in the next year felt he had a good money buy."

'Feedlots To Shrink'

Hughes predicted that feedlot operations would be smaller in the next few years "because many farmers simply can't get the credit they need to operate on a large scale even if they do see a turn-around in the feeding market. Losses have been hellish for both feeders and producers."

"Some of the non-farm investors who sought a tax shelter found a shelter that took their tax money for last year and next year as well. They experienced a financial disaster and won't be back feeding cattle any time soon," he added.

Miller indicated that experts at the Federal Reserve Bank doubt that a grain surplus will be produced in 1975. "If there is a surplus it will be because of perfect weather, not because of more land going into production or something that farmers deliberately plan to do," he said.

Miller and Hughs estimated that farm income on a gross basis would be slightly better in 1975 than in 1974, but said that net income might be as much as 20% below 1974 because of sharply higher costs for 56th, died Sunday. everything a farmer uses.

Larson Sees Small Firms As Tenants

A $500,000 project in south Lincoln is being built to order for smaller manufacturers.

Duane Larson, president of Larson Construction Co. of Lincoin, said construction started in early November on a threebuilding complex. The four-acre site is in the Lincoln Chamber's Industrial Tract.

The project's initial phase, a 21,000 sq. ft. building, should be completed by the first of next year, Larson said.

The three structures, when completed in late 1975, will include a total of 50,000 sq. ft., which will be partitioned and finished to tenants' needs, he added.

Larson said he expects about 10 tenants, mostly smaller manufacturers, to take advantage of the industrial office and production space.

Land and Sky Manufacturers. makers of waterbeds and accessories, will be one of the first tenants. Several other local firms have also expressed interest, he said.

"I could see a definite need for this type of thing," Larson said. "It's usually pretty hard for smaller companies to buy the ground and build the buildings . . . It's too big a project for these companies to handle."

Deflation Of Economy Said In 'Very Early Stages' Now

Livestock producers are facing horrid losses, grain producers have little danger of producing a surplus in 1975 and the deflation of the economy has begun, according to speakers at the Nebraska Tax Research Council meeting Monday.

"The process of disinflation seems to be working in the very early stages," said Glenn H. Miller Jr. of the economic and research division of the Federal Reserve Bank at Kansas City, patience, but it is happening,"

Miller noted that the demand for many products had been reduced to the point that shortages had begun to clear up, a process he predicted would soon result in some price drops.

'Patience Needed'

Miller said government efforts to increase spending or to increase taxes would be detrimental to the process of disinflation.

"Midwestern states with a large agricultural base have less fluctuation in income of its citizens then the states that have a large durable goods industry or an economy based on coal mining," he said.

"The people in Nebraska are in a relatively favorable position compared to the rest of the nation during the current recession," he said.

John J. Hughes, executive vice president of the Omaha National Bank, told the group that "savings and loan associations have experienced a capital in-"This is a show process that flow in October which has

The project's initial phase, a 21,000 sq. ft. building, should be completed by the first of next year, Larson said.

The three structures, when completed in late 1975, will include a total of 50,000 sq. ft., which will be partitioned and finished to tenants' needs, he added.

Larson said he expects about 10 tenants, mostly smaller manufacturers, to take advantage of the industrial office and production space. Land and Sky Manufacturers, makers of waterbeds and accessories, will be one of the first tenants. Several other local firms have also expressed interest, he said.

"I could see a definite need for this type of thing," Larson said. "It's usually pretty hard for smaller companies to buy the ground and build the buildings . . . It's too big a project for these the Federal Power Commission (FPC) in efforts to stop construction delay at the Gentleman Power Station which could cost Nebraskans some $50 million, Sen. Carl T. Curtis, R-Neb., said.

The action was taken, Curtis said, "because of a cease and desist order of the FPC to stop all ongoing construction of the Gerald Gentleman steam power plant being built by the District.

The FPC issued the order on Oct. 25 in a suit brought by the Sierra Club

Curtis said work on the Gentleman station at Sutherland had been progressing for nearly a year, and was scheduled to be completed in 1978.

"A delay at this time could mean postponement of the project until 1979," Curtis said. 'That could mean as much as $50 million increase in the cost

"It's fundamentally the salvation of the industry," Larry Provo told the Nebraska Public Service Commission in an hourlong meeting.

And Provo said the railroads "resent like hell" efforts by regulatory bodies to block abandonments.

In addition, Provo said part of that evolution calls for greater consolidation of grain in relatively few elevators and extensive use of the trainload approach toward shipping grain.

Together with the Burlington Northern, the C&NW plans to build a $100 million high speed track to carry low-sulfur coal from Shawnee, Wyo., to Blair. The improvements involve 100 miles of new track and improvement of another 500 miles of track to carry the new 100-ton coal hoppers.

The movement of that Wyoming coal through Nebraska, he said, should begin around 1980.

Provo cautioned, "It's not in vour best interest to fool in our

Commissioner Duane Gay, whose district includes the bulk of the proposed C&NW abandonments, debated the merits of the abandonments with Provo.

Gay said the abandonments were forcing elevators to shift to trucks to move grain to central locations, forcing the cost of the grain higher and hurting rural Nebraska.

Provo acknowledged that the abandonment policy "doesn't keep anyone very happy." But he said an inventory of income and mileage in 1968 revealed that 45% of the lines generated only 4% of the firm's income.

obsolete. And the cost of rehabilitation is so great that it is difficult to see where the money would be forthcoming."

On another matter, Cook and commission economist Dave Mazour reviewed details of the new resource development fund established by the Legislature. By next year, $2 million will be available under the law for resource projects over the state, and Cook predicted this may expand to $5 million to $10 million annually.

He said it is contemplated that "each project will be evaluated individually" rather than through priorities based upon the type of work proposed. A state advisory board has scheduled a Dec. 17 hearing to present proposed regulations.

2 Motions Passed Board member Frank Landis of Lincoln offered two motions both approved unanimously, to eliminate the confusion over with no handicapped students and the Department of Adbut with access to an educational service unit (ESU), which offers programs for the handicapped, may be billed for available ESU services.

The first asks the attorney general's opinion on: -Whether a school district

-And whether a district with no handicapped students but which has a contract with an ESU, may, be billed for its available services.

The board also approved Landis' motion to set up an advisory committee to work with the ministrative Services (DAS), to set up uniform, long-range funding procedures.

said he's certain the committee State Department of Education can "work out a reasonable solution" with DAS and the million. He said there is no fat in Education Department. Requests Denied DAS came under fire when it denied the Education Department's request to continue reimbursing ESUs directly for services to school districts.

Francis Colgan, special education administrator, said there are 33,000 handicapped children in the state, and the state share under LB403 has been negotiated down from $23 million in 1974-75 to $11.4

Northwestern Transportation Co. (C&NW) Monday said the abandonment of branch lines is an essential part of railroad evolution.

"It's fundamentally the salvation of the industry," Larry Provo told the Nebraska Public Service Commission in an hourlong meeting.

And Provo said the railroads "resent like hell" efforts by regulatory bodies to block abandonments.

In addition, Provo said part of that evolution calls for greater consolidation of grain in relatively few elevators and extensive use of the trainload approach toward shipping grain.

Here is a pleasant little game that will give you a message every day. It's a numerical puzzle designed to spell out your fortune. Count the letters in your first name. If the number of letters is 6 or more, subtract 4. If the number is less than 6, add 3. The result is your key number. Start at the upper left-hand corner of the rectangle and check every one of your key numbers, left to right. Then read the message the letters under the checked figures give you. 11-26
